700 Troopers Preserve Peace After Severe Clash at Flint

Michigan Governor Tries to Launch Conferences

MEETING THURSDAY

Murphy Asks Delay in Serving Warrants On Strikers

St. Louis —(AP)— Members of the United Automobile Workers of America went on strike today at General Motors' Chevrolet-Fisher Body plant but their walkout did not stop operations.

Delmond Garst, secretary of the St. Louis local of the union, estimated 3,000 workers had gone on strike. He said they had decided against a "stay-in" demonstration in the belief they could shut down the plant by remaining outside.

Vincent M. Dirkes, manager of the Fisher Body division, issued a statement the plant would continue to operate as long as possible. He said 1,000 of his unit's 2,275 employes had reported for work and one assembly line was being operated.

Flint, Mich.—(AP)—Seven hundred officers and men of the 126th infantry carrying full combat equipment, detrained here today, prepared to carry out Governer Frank Murphy's orders to "preserve peace and order" in this automotive center where bloody rioting marked the General Motors strike Monday.

At almost the same time Governor Murphy sought to bring representatives of both sides to the controversy together in a meeting at the state capital tomorrow.

Flint's civilian population, greeting national guardsmen for the first time in such a situation, viewed the arrival of the troops with outward relief. The soldiers, infantrymen, artillerymen and cavalry, were the first of a concentration of appoximately 2,000 guardsmen, who, the governor said, would protect the rights of both strikers and the general public.

On the troop train arriving this morning were companies from Adrian, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Coldwater, Big Rapids, Grand Haven and Ionia. Another contingent, previously had arrived from Adrian by truck.

Strikers Comfortable

The "sitdown" strikers in the body plant where the rioting occurred seemed comfortable and happy when visited by newsmen last night. Several of them were amusing themselves by wearing badges, caps and uniform coats belonging to company guards.

Murphy requested William S. Knudsen, General Motors executive vice president, and Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, each accompanied by two associates, to meet in Lansing at 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow with the governor and James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator.

Pending the outcome of this conference, Governor Murphy requested Joseph R. Joseph, Genesee county (Flint) prosecutor, to withhold service of "John Doe" warrants for the arrest of the several hundred strikers remaining in the Fisher Body No. 2 plant here, outside of which a score of persons were injured in the riot.

Charges in Warrants

The warrants, charging kidnaping, vicious destruction of property while rioting, felonious assault and criminal syndicalism, were issued by two municipal court judges here last night.

The warrants were signed by Detective Lieutenant Ray Martin and issued by Judges Edwin D. Mallory and Frank W. Cain.

While the 126th infantry of the national guard was arriving here Governor Murphy revealed that three other regiments were being mobilized. He said this would make approximately 2,000 troops avail-

Progressives and Farmer-Laborites Beaten on Demands

Washington —(AP)— House Democrats, forming committees for the session, overrode Progressive and Farmer-Laborite demands today for recognition as a minority party.

In caucus they approved assignments of their 332 members, the 8 Progressives and 5 Farmer-Laborites. The Progressives and Farmer-Laborite bloc asked of the committee representation in the same ratio to the total house membership as the Republican minority. They were given four major committee assignments.

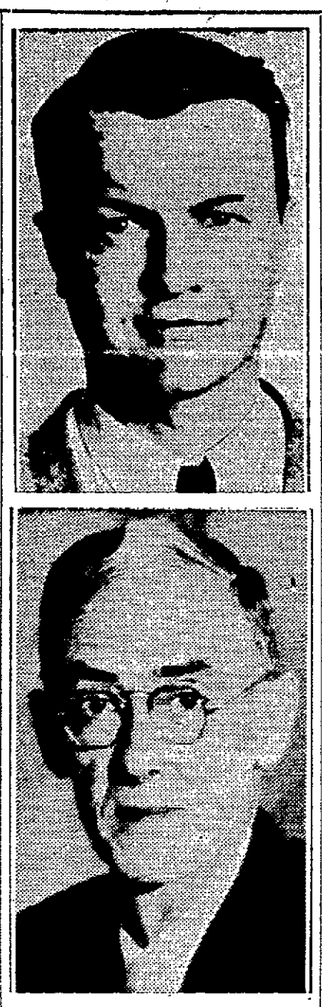

Their opposition later delayed house ratification of the assignments.

Representative Boileau (P-Wis.), bloc floor leader, said his associates were "entirely dissatisfied."

Boileau (P-Wis.), agriculture; Withrow (P-Wis.), interstate commerce; Kvale (F-L-Minn.), military; Schneider (P-Wis.), labor.

Minnesota's new Farmer-Laborites were put on these committees: Teigan, civil service and public lands; Johnson, Indian, patents and revision of the laws; Bernard, Pensions and war claims.

IN PLANE TRAGEDY

W. W. Lewis (upper) was pilot of the Western Air Express plane which was wreacked near San Fernando, Calif., within 10 miles of the Burbank, Calif., airport, the plane's destination. Two men died in the crash, one of them being James A. Braden (lower) of Cleveland, Ohio, president of the Braden-Sutphin Ink Co., and city purchasing agent for Cleveland in 1934. The other was Martin Johnson, famous African explorer. (Associated Press Photos)

Locomotive Kills 8 Section Crew Members in West

Runs Over Group While Backing Up in Mojave Desert

Los Angeles—(AP)—A freight locomotive backing up in the darkness of the Bojave desert ran over a section crew killing eight men, the Union Pacific railroad said today.

The accident occurred outside Brant, a small town on the main line 76 miles west of Las Vegas, Nev.

The crew had been called out at 3 a. m. to clear snow from the tracks 10 miles west of Brant.

Only the foreman of the crew, Vernal A. Anderson, 36, of Brant, the father of five children, was immediately identified.

The engineer of the locomotive, W. H. Galli, said he was backing up from Nipton. He struck the crew's motor car about 1,000 feet from the Brant station.

Van Sweringen Loan 'Mistake'

Financier Admits Error of Firm in Underwriting Note

Washington—(AP)—Joseph R. Swan, former president of the Guaranty company, a New York investment firm, told senate investigators today "it is clear we made a mistake" in underwriting a $30,000,000 real estate note issue for the late Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland.

Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont.) of the senate railroad finance investigating committee had charged the public lost $15,758,004 of the $30,000,000 it invested in the notes.

Swan testified he had never seen a balance sheet of the Cleveland Terminal Building company, one of the Van Sweringen firms involved in the real estate development.

Asserting "it is clear we made a mistake" in deciding to underwrite the note issue, Swan said:

"But we do think we did it after careful, diligent investigation and using our best judgment."

The company's officers had repeatedly advised with Harold Stanley, a partner in Morgan, Stanley and Company, he added.

He blamed the decline in value of the notes, on "the greatest financial collapse in history," adding that "we didn't foresee what was going to happen."

The notes were issued in 1930, Swan testified, after his company had twice rejected proposals for financing the Van Sweringen real estate enterprises prior to the 1929 market crash.

Permit Is Issued for Courthouse at Oshkosh

Oshkosh—(AP)—The city building inspector issued a permit today for construction of a new Winnebago county courthouse. The structure will cost $690,000, not including plumbing, heating and electrical equipment. Work on it will start at once.

Explorer Dies Of Injuries in Airplane Crash

Martin Johnson Succumbs In Hospital in Los Angeles

SECOND FATALITY

All Others Aboard Ill-Fated Airliner Suffer Injuries

Los Angeles—(AP)—Martin Johnson, noted explorer, died today of injuries suffered in yesterday's Western Air Express transport crash, the second fatality among the 13 persons aboard the ill-fated airliner.

James A. Braden, president of the Cleveland, Ohio, ink company, was crushed to death between two seats when the two-motored plane pancaked on a fog-shrouded mountainside 15 miles from Union Air terminal, its destination at Burbank on a flight from Salt Lake City.

Co-Pilot Clifford P. Owens and A. L. Loomis, of Omaha, Neb., a passenger, were critically hurt, but none of those riding in the big all metal craft escaped without some injury.

Mrs. Osa Johnson, the explorer's wife, suffered concussion and a fractured right knee.

H. H. Hulse, Peru, Ill., suffered a fractured right elbow and right ankle. His condition was said to be fair.

R. T. Anderson, Atlantic City, suffered a lacerated face and neck and possible skull fracture. His right leg was fractured.

Two Probes Ordered

T. E. Tillinghast, Hartford, Conn., suffered a fractured leg and lacerations.

Loomis had head and internal injuries, in addition to several fractures.

While now piled up on the damaged wings and fuselage of the airliner, on a ridge 100 yards below the Los Pinetos ranger lookout station, two governmental inquiries were set in motion in an attempt to determine the cause of the disaster.

It was the fifth major airliner accident in the United States in the last 30 days.

Using a six-mule team and wagon, rescuers toiled all night to bring out the injured during a snow storm. The big ship struck a foothill in murky weather 10 miles from

Christensen Maps Out Farm Needs

Badger Dean Lists Factors Governing Future of Agriculture

Green Bay —(AP)— The future of the dairy industry in Wisconsin will depend upon what Wisconsin dairy farmers do in the way of dairy herd improvement and crop management within the four line fences of their farms; what changes take place in farming in other parts of the United States, particularly in the form of dairy expansion; and what happens to the market for dairy products, as determined by the size of the urban payroll, and an increasing preference of consumers for dairy products in their diet, Dean C. L. Christensen of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture told more than 2,000 farmers assembled in the Columbus Community club auditorium here this afternoon.

Dean Christensen's talk was the highlight of the Dairy day programs arranged jointly by the Green Bay Association of Commerce, the state department of agriculture and the Brown County Dairy Herd improvement association.

"We must not lose sight for one minute of the fact that our farming is on a commercial basis and that we are in active competition with many other food products for a place on the consumer's diet," Dean Christensen said.

Thousands of the state's dairy farmers, he said, are improving their farm income situation and strengthening their competitive position by giving greater attention to improved cattle breeding and by growing more of the feeds required for their herds.

Uihlein Ordered to Appear as Witness

Milwaukee —(AP)— Circuit Judge John C. Kleczka granted today a demand of attorneys for the state banking commission that Robert A. Uihlein, wealthy capitalist, be required to appear and testify in the commission's suit against the first Wisconsin National bank.

Uihlein is a director of the First Wisconsin which the commission is suing for recovery of collateral posted for loans to the Liberty State bank, now closed. The commission contends the transactions were illegal.

Adolf Hafner, a branking commission deputy, was called to testify on Liberty State records. He produced a compilation of records which he said had been made by Mrs. Viola Pilgrim, now of Sheboygan, at his direction from records of the Liberty. Mrs. Pilgrim formerly was secretary of I. J. Rosenberg, convicted president of the Liberty.

50,000 Persons See 5 Executed As Drug Peddlers

Peiping, China —(AP)—An estimated 50,000 onlookers watched five narcotics peddlers executed today on the broad steps of the world-famous Temple of Heaven.

The executions were the second in China's anti-narcotics crusade and were performed with gruesome fanfare.

The thousands of witnesses watch intently but with no sign of emotion as the condemned men, shackled and bound, were forced to kneel in front of the rifle squads and be killed with bullets through their skulls.

The almost ceremonial killings started with a bonfire of 10,000 ounces of assorted narcotics which were seized after the "be cured by New Year's or die" drive started this month.

After the contraband had been burned the shackled prisoners were dragged to the scene and forced to pose for photographs for use by the authorities in their crusade.

Britain Probing Reported Seizure Of Copper Mines

Studies 'Facts' on Alleged Forced Sale of Products to Germany

London —(AP)— British officials said today they were studying "facts" placed before them concerning the reported seizure of British-owned copper mines by the Spanish insurgent commander, General Francisco Franco, and the forced sale of their product to Germany.

The reports, previously denied at the foreign office, said two British copper companies, the Rio Tinto and the smaller Tharsis concern of Glasgow, were being forced by Franco to sell their output at a low rate.

A French firm was said to be in a similar position.

One British spokesman said no action was contemplated "now."

The great Rio Tinto mines, in Huelva, are capable of producing 100,000 tons of ore a month.

Informed sources disclosed at the same time that General Franco had contended, in reply to a British protest over the bombing of the British embassy in Madrid, that Spanish government planes really had attacked the structure.

It was not stated whether this explanation was accepted. A new report said the British consulate in Malaga had been damaged by fascist shells which fell nearby.

Authorities accepted an invitation from the insurgent high commissioner in Spanish Morocco for inspection of the zone by a group of British naval officers, to determine that there are no German troop concentrations there.

5 Big Rail Unions to Demand Pay Increases

Chicago —(AP)— Representatives of the five major railroad unions were in session behind closed doors today to formulate demands for a general wage increase on behalf of nearly 300,000 railway workers.

D. B. Robinson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said, "so far as I know nothing but wage will be considered at this meeting."

Brotherhoods represented, in addition to Robinson's, were the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railroad Conductors and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Assemblyman Breaks Arm in Auto Accident

Humbird, Wis. —(AP)— Judge F. A. Kremer of Phillips, Wis., Price county assemblyman, received a broken arm and scalp wounds yesterday when his automobile and a truck collided on Highway 12 near here.

State Senator J. E. McDermid of Ladysmith, Wis., who was riding with Judge Kremer, was shaken up.

Both men continued to Madison, Wis., for the opening session of the legislature after being treated here by Dr. S. G. Schwarz.

Follow Clues In Search for Boy's Slayer

FUNERAL TODAY

Officials are Silent on Whether Only One Man Is Being Sought

BULLETIN

Folsom, Calif. —(AP)— Folsom prison authorities received word today federal officials are seeking Fred Orrin Haynes, former two-time convict, in connection with the Mattson kidnaping.

The nature of the evidence pointing toward Haynes was not revealed but it was stated the criminal identification bureau at Sacramento had been asked to check on Haynes' finger prints.

Tacoma, Wash.—(AP)— Law officers hunted a long knife today as one of the most important clues to the identity of Charles Mattson's kidnap-killer.

The knife was used in inflicting a deep wound in the kidnaped boy's back before he was slain by a blow on the head. Reports of the stab wound came from several reliable sources.

The same sources said the wound was narrow, apparently made by a long slim blade. They said either a carving knife, stiletto or large penknife had been used.

Tacoma, Wash. —(AP)— Charles Mattson's flower-banked casket today shielded from the gaze of his sorrowing family the brutal wounds he suffered at the hands of a kidnaper and slayer.

Hundreds of officers hunted throughout the Pacific northwest for the kidnaper of the 10-year-old Tacoma boy as Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Mattson prepared for the ordeal of the funeral services at 1 p. m. (Pacific standard time) today.

Details of the boy's wounds, learned at a closely guarded autopsy, were withheld entirely from Mrs. Mattson and from the two remaining children, William, 16, and Muriel, 14, friends said. No announcement of what the autopsy showed was made by federal agents or by physicians who conducted it.

One stab wound from the back almost pierced the body, but missed vital organs and left Charles in torture before his kidnaper finally dispatched him, the San Francisco Chronicle said in a copyrighted Tacoma dispatch.

Fought For Life

The autopsy also indicated the boy fought fiercely, the newspaper said, "probably in an attempt to escape from an abductor who subjected him to "fearful inhumanities," fed him barely enough food to keep alive and provided no protection against the bitter cold.

"Death," the dispatch said, "had occurred possibly six days before the frozen body was discovered."

A man who became frightened and ran away from a newstand was sought in the vicinity of San Bernardino, Calif.

The search was as intense as it was wide, federal agents checking from house to house in the Tacoma area.

Department of justice operatives kept secret whether they sought one or two men for the brutal crime, but they had definite clues to guide them toward the man who played the principal role.

Dr. W. W. Mattson, father of the boy, who strove in vain to pay the $28,000 ransom demanded, indicated in an anguished cry that he believed there was more than one kid-

Social Security Board Plans 6 Badger Offices

Washington—(AP)—The social security board announced it would establish six field offices in Wisconsin to administer the federal old age benefits program.

They will be at Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, La Crosse, Madison and Wausau. An office already is in operation at Milwaukee.

The board said personnel would be drawn from civil service lists in the state.

34 Americans in U. S. Embassy at Madrid Refuse to Evacuate Capital

Madrid—(AP)—Thirty-four Americans living in the United States embassy at Madrid declined today to leave the Spanish capital despite urgent warnings from state department officials.

None had requested transportation to Valencia when the noon deadline arrived although several said they might depart later.

The warning sounded by Eric C. Wendelin, third secretary now at Valencia, that the embassy building might be closed, caused some concern among the refugees.

Americans in the besieged capital now total 102. Some are wives of Spanish husbands who have refused to leave their homes while others are Puerto Ricans and Filipinos.

Eight of the 34 Americans living in the embassy are newspaper correspondents.

Evacuation of the Spanish civil population continued, meanwhile, at the rate of approximately 8,000 daily.

The war office reported socialists forces had driven back an insurgent column near Majadahonda, northwest of the capital.

It acknowledged, however, that insurgents who swept through that sector last week to break government communications with El Escorial and the Guadarrama defense line still held control at Las Rozas, El Plantio and Aravaca. Aravaca is about five miles from Madrid proper on the vital highway.

Brief reports from Valencia, now the seat of the Spanish government, said the insurgent cruiser Canarias bombarded the city early last night.

(Later reports from Valencia said an insurgent ship or ships shelled the port but were driven away by land batteries and government air bombers after a heavy exchange of fire.

(The insurgent cruisers Canarias and Espana were said to have shelled the port of Malaga, one of the few remaining socialist strongholds in the south, Monday. The whole city, it was said, was heavily damaged, including the British consulate and a building believed American-owned.)

Progressives Organize Senate; Waupaca Fight Delays House Action

Bankhead Expects House O. K. for Roosevelt Plan

Speaker Thinks Number Of Changes in Details May be Made

Washington—(AP)— Administration leadership in the house recognized opposition to President Roosevelt's vast reorganization program today but predicted favorable action on it.

Saying that "naturally there would be a wide range of views on such a program," speaker Bankhead told reporters he expected the house to "approve the program with possibly a few changes as to details."

The plan to create two new cabinet posts, abolish the comptroller-general's office and otherwise revise the executive structure overshadowed in capitol interests resumption of a senate inquiry into railroad finincing and the start of house hearings on relief apropriations.

First a list of prominent financiers summoned to appear before the senate investigators in their renewed hearings, Joseph R. Swan, former president of the Guaranty company, New York investment firm, testified "we made a mistake" in underwriting a $30,000,000 real estate note issue for the late Van Sweringen brothers, railroad magnates of Cleveland.

Hopkins Explains Request

Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, appeared before a house appropriations subcommittee to explain President Roosevelt's request for a $790,000,000 appropriation to finance relief for the next five months.

The labor relations board inquiry into employe relations of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation developed testimony that the corporation once had refused to allow a pro-Roosevelt resolution of employe representatives at its Edgar Thomson works to be posted on a bulletin board.

The senate banking committee gave unanimous approval to an administration bill providing for extension of the reconstruction corporation to June 30, 1939.

Pope Pius Placed Into Wheelchair

Pontiff Leaves Sickbed at Vatican First Time In Over Month

Vatican City —(AP)— Pope Pius left his sickbed today for the first time in more than a month.

The pontiff, ill with a variety of old age complications, was placed in a wheelchair especially constructed to allow him to rest without discomfort to his legs, swollen with varicose veins.

The chair was pushed from the holy father's bedroom to a private chapel nearby where the pontiff prayed.

Then he was taken to an antechamber where he received members of his family who have been barred from his presence for several weeks.

Fears were felt in Vatican circles a vein in Pope Pius' right leg might burst at any time, duplicating the danger of infection caused by the vericose vein in his left leg.

Until the swollen right leg, in which the varicose condition recently has grown worse, is relieved by natural and artificial drainage, well-informed sources said, the holy father must suffer periods of intense agony.

Articles of Clothing Spur Hunt for Fliers

Hennepin, Ill. —(AP)— Recovery of articles of clothing spurred the search for a missing monoplane containing two Massachusetts National Guardsmen believed to have plunged into the swollen Illinois river Monday night.

Richard Schafer and Earl Tyne found a pair of aviator's trousers in the water about three miles south of Hennepin, near the river bank. They were identified as the property of Lieutenant Frank Otis of Boston, the pilot.

An overcoat found a mile further southward was identified as that of Sergeant John F. Gibbons of Natuck, Mass., Otis' passenger on a projected flight from Chicago to Moline.

3 Green Bay Men Bound Over for Robbery Trial

Rhinelander —(AP)— Judge H. F. Steel bound over three Green Bay men to county court yesterday after they pleaded innocent to charges of robbing Roy Frederick, a tavern employe at McNaughton, of $25. Bail was set at $2,000.

The men are Clayton Rentmaster, Roy Blondheim and Alex Neir. They were arrested in Green Bay Sunday night.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM

RULE COMMITTEE

Assembly Fights Over Proposal to Seat Handrich

Madison—(AP)—The first ballot on the election of an assembly speaker threw the organization of the lower house of the legislature into a tangle today.

Out of four candidates for the presiding office, none received a majority. The assembly voted at 2:15 p. m. to recess for one hour during which party leaders proposed to suggest some vote trading.

The result of the first ballot was 45 for Paul Alfonsi of Pence, Progressive; 17 for Milton Murray, Milwaukee Republican; 2 for Charles B. Perry, Republican of Wauwatosa, and 29 for Cornelius Young, Milwaukee Democrat. Six scattered votes were cast for other votes were necessary for election.

Assembly organization procedure was held up two hours in a dispute over the seating of Alvin Handrich of Manawa, a Progressive. The secretary of state certified Handrich's election over Edwin Russell, Republican of Ogdensburg, by one vote. Russell had obtained a court order electing him by two votes.

The assembly permitted Handrich to be sworn. A vote on removing him probably will be taken after organization is completed but it will require a two-thirds majority to seat Russell.

Madison—(AP)—Progressives, with the aid of a Republican and a Democrat, organized the state senate at the opening of the legislature session today, and elected Senator Walter Rush, Neillsville Progressive, president pro tem.

The Progressives also obtained control of the committee which makes all assignments to the senate standing committees, with the help of Senators Philip Nelson, Republican of Maple, and Arthur L. Zinny, Democrat of Milwaukee.

Members of the committee on committees are Senators Nelson, Zimny and E. M. Rowlands, Progressive of Cambria.

The vote on adoption of a Progressive resolution setting up this committee was 24 to 9, but previously a Republican move to block the selection of these three members lost 18 to 15.

Rush defeated Senator Oscar Morris, Milwaukee Republican, 17 to 16. Senators Nelson and Zimny voting for Rush.

Cashman Backs Norris

Senator John Cashman of Denmark, veteran Progressive who turned Democrat in the last election, voted with the Democrats and Republicans against Rush and against the Progressive choices for the committee on committees.

The senate unanimously reelected Lawrence Larson of Racine as clerk and Emil Hartman, Madison, as sergeant-at-arms.

After adopting a resolution congratulating Senator Harry Bolens, Port Washington Democrat, on his seventy-third birthday today, the upper house adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Fight In Assembly

A battle over the proposed seating of Alvin Handrich, Manawa Progressive, delayed organization of the state assembly today. Handrich was declared elected by one vote by a Waupaca county canvassing board, but Circuit Judge Byron Park later threw out three absentee ballots and declared Edwin Russell, Ogdensburg Republican, elected.

As the assemblymen met, Lester Johnson of Brandon, clerk at the last session, read an opinion from Attorney General O. S. Loomis holding the circuit court had no jurisdiction and that Handrich should be seated.

Three Republicans, Milton Murray, Milwaukee, Vernon Thompson, Richland Center, and Frank Graas, Sturgeon Bay, sought to have the assembly decide the dispute at once but the clerk ruled their preliminary motions out of order until all assemblymen had signed the roll.

The legislators then proceeded with this formality. Handrich signed the roll. Russell did not.

RECLUSE FOUND DEAD

Oshkosh Seeking Reinstatement of Happ Will of '24

Arguments on Plea Presented Before State Supreme Court

Madison—(AP)—A plea for reinstatement of a will executed by Mrs. Mary Happ, Oshkosh, in 1924 and revoked on her authorization nine years later was argued before the state supreme court today.

The appeal from a decision of Judge F. W. Bucklin, who upheld validity of the revocation order, was made on behalf of the city of Oshkosh, which was heir to a trust fund of approximately $300,000 in the cancelled will.

Mrs. Happ died intestate as a result of the invalidation of a second will drawn in 1933 which was found to have been obtained under duress. The heirs are a nephew, Fred Stanhilber, and a niece, Mrs. Bernice Spoo, whose attorneys contested appeal arguments today.

D. K. Allen of the Oshkosh city attorney's staff based his plea before the high court on the contention Mrs. Happ was unduly influenced in destroying her first will and that it was not her purpose to cancel her plans for setting up a memorial trust fund, the income of which was to be used for a hospital, school for girls, or other civil project.

Discusses Relationship

Allen discussed the relationship between Mrs. Happ and A. J. Hennig, former president of the City National Bank of Oshkosh, who controlled her financial affairs with

Schacht Calls Off His Proposed Trip to Paris

Berlin—(AP)—Nazi Germany's "economic ambassador," Reichminister Hjalmar Schacht, suddenly called off a trip to Paris today and left in the hands of departmental experts new negotiations for a Franco-German trade treaty.

The announcement that Dr. Schacht's affairs in Berlin were too pressing to permit him to make the scheduled trip coincided with the first official German admission that such negotiations were under way.

(There have been indications that Franco-German economic accord, taking into consideration Germany's urgent need for raw materials, might be the prelude to a political understanding between the two nations).

Reichsbank circles were taken by surprise at the announcement Dr. Schacht, who is both economics minister and head of the bank, would not go to France. They wondered if something had come up to make such a visit seem premature at this time.

State American Legion Has Record Enrollment

Milwaukee —(AP)— G. H. Stordock, department adjutant, announced today the American Legion has the largest Wisconsin enrollment it ever has had at this time of the year, 27,000 members.

He said he was confident of 35,000 members this year. The 1936 total was 29,983, and the largest enrollment the state ever had was 31,784 in 1932.

Totals for 1936, Stordock said, have been exceeded by 228 posts, 28 counties and two districts.

Officers and other representatives of Wisconsin's 406 legion posts will receive instruction in the organization's 1937 program at a midwinter conference in Portage, Jan. 22, 23 and 24. The Legion's fun group, 40 et 8, will banquet Jan. 22 in honor of Harry E. Ransom, West Allis, national head of the organization.

E. A. Simpson Files Slander Action as Result of Divorce

London— (AP)— Ernest Aldrich Simpson, former husband of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, has filed a slander suit against Mrs. Joan Sutherland, alleging she said Simpson received a sum of money to permit his American wife to divorce him, it was learned today.

Mrs. Sutherland is the wife of Lieutenant Colonel A. H. C. Sutherland who has been decorated by the government with the order of the British Empire and also the military cross.

Simpson declined to discuss the case except to confirm that notice of the suit had been issued and served on Mrs. Sutherland.

Jahnke Named to Vocational Board To Succeed Guyer

Carleton Saecker Reelected As Member Representing Employers

Harvey Jahnke, 912 W. Commercial street, was appointed last night by the board of education to succed Adolph Guyer, 602 S. Walnut street, as a member of the vocational school board representing the employe class. Carleton Saecker, 914 E. Hancock street, was reelected as a member representing the employers.

Before a vote was taken, it was explained that Mr. Guyer had previously been appointed to represent the employes but that he no longer is eligible for that class because he now is a supervisor on a federal works project.

Action on approving plans for the tower in the new school was deferred until the state industrial commission informs the board on the number of exits necessary in the building and whether present plans are correct. The education committee has recommended that the door opening in the main entrance of the building be enlarged so that their total width is not less than 13 feet.

Study Insurance

The question of fire insurance on the new school during the building period was referred to the building committee with power to act. The board was informed that Frank Bartz will be employed by the architects to make test borings.

The building committee's selection of materials for floors in the new senior high school was approved by the board.

Three representatives of bricklayer's local No. 10 appeared at the session and explained that the present wage scale for bricklayers provides for $1.25 an hour on a 40-hour week basis and $1.40 an hour on a 30-hour week setup.

Because they are unable legally to allot funds for private work, board members refused a request that they provide $90 toward purchase of films for R. L. Swanson's conservation movie project. The chamber of commerce recently voted $60 toward the work. The films were to have been shown in the various schools.

The board approved the education committee's recommendation that WPA projects concerning woodworking as suggested by Leo Solinger, WPA official, be laid on the table. Children of the orthopedic school have been provided with a radio through the courtesy of a Chicago broadcasting station, the board was informed.

Students Prepare For Registration

First Semester for Public Schools Will Close Friday Jan. 22

Advance registration for second semester classes at Appleton High school started this afternoon in the home rooms The first semester will close Friday, Jan. 22 with the next term opening Monday, Jan. 25.

Former students who desire to reenter school and any new students may register at the high school starting this afternoon An enrolment of 1,175 was reported during the first semester and it is expected that 1,200 students will attend classes during the second semester.

Registration cards will be filled out as though all subjects had been passed and the office staff will make necessary changes for U students. In nearly all subjects, all U pupils will be carried until June.

Seniors who will be graduated must have three units of English, three units of social science and one of biology. Algebra and geometry have been recommended for students who desire to enter college after graduation.

Four Motor Vehicles Damaged in Accidents

Four motor vehicles were slightly damaged in two traffic accidents in Appleton late Tuesday morning but occupants were not hurt, according to police.

Delivery trucks owned by the Lemke Grocery, 843 W. College avenue, and the Elm Tree Bakery, 303 E. College avenue were involved in a collision on E Wisconsin avenue about 10 o'clock The grocery truck, driven by Leo Kuchenbecker, 1753 N. Oneida street, was halted to permit a delivery and the bakery machine, driven by Ralph Krabbe 300 E. Fremont street, was going west when the collision occurred.

Cars driven by Joseph Marston, 221 N. Lawe street, and Al Langstedt, 211 E Franklin street, collided at N. Oneida and W. North street about 10 o'clock. Marston was going south on Oneida street and Langstedt west on North street, when the accident occurred.

Industrial Commission To Conduct 4 Hearings

Four hearings under the workmen's compensation act will be conducted by the Wisconsin industrial commission at the city hall on Friday, Jan. 29.

Cases to be heard in the morning are: Carl Last versus Northern Paper Mills, 9 o'clock; and Roman Mullen versus Outagamie county highway commission, 10 o'clock.

Afternoon cases are: John Loessel versus Eau Claire Beer Distributing company, 1:30 o'clock and Mrs. Herman Wieland versus Tom Grimes estate, 2 o'clock.

PHYSICIANS MEET

The Appleton Medical society, organized recently, held its second meeting at Conway hotel Tuesday evening. About 20 members were present and a 6:30 dinner preceded a business session.

EXPLORER KILLED, WIFE INJURED

Martin Johnson, famous African explorer, died today in a hospital in Los Angeles of injuries received in an airliner crash north of that city. He is shown here with Mrs. Johnson, who suffered concussion and a fractured right knee in the accident The couple had smilingly agreed that life in the jungle was safer than in civilization. Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The General Motors Strike Again

At the end of the week another pair of statements were published setting forth the respective positions of the two sides in the General Motors strike. They are decidedly better than the preceding statements, and they show that the Federal conciliators and Governor Murphy of Michigan, with the support of impartial public opinion, have done much to modify the attitude of the management and of the union. The company is now willing to bargain about "matters of general corporate policy" This is a very creditable abandonment of the untenable position taken by Mr Knudsen in his letter of December 31. While the union has not modified the letter of its demands, Mr. Martin has let it be known that he no longer insists on recognition of the union as "the sole bargaining agent" — though he would still like to discuss the proposal.

Lippmann

Both sides have, therefore, abandoned the principles which would have made a negotiated settlement impossible. They are now prevented from negotiating by the fact that the strikers are in physical occupation of the plants. The company holds that this is physical coercion and that it is illegal, that negotiations can begin only when the plants are evacuated The union's position is that the strikers will evacuate the plants provided the company guarantees to close all the plants and not to remove any of the equipment. In short, the union says it will surrender the physical possession of the plants only if it retains the advantage which it has gained by taking possession of the plants. It demands that the company should concede as a matter of right what the union has gained by the illegal use of force

Can't Obtain Just Verdict By Collective Bargaining

In taking this position Mr Martin is in effect saying that he does not believe that he can obtain by collective bargaining what he regards as a just verdict,—unless the union has the physical power to stop the industry. So while Mr. Martin says that he wishes to negotiate with Mr. Sloan he also says that he does not trust Mr. Sloan to negotiate; that, therefore, Mr. Martin must have the ultimate physical power to impose upon Mr. Sloan the settlement that Mr. Martin prefers But what redress has Mr. Sloan if the union presents what Mr. Sloan regards as an unreasonable demand and then refuses to yield to evidence and argument? It is unreasonable. Mr. Martin is asking the company to give up its indubitable legal rights in order to enter a negotiation in which the union can coerce the company but in which the company cannot coerce the union.

It is plain, I think, that this issue has arisen now because of the distrust accumulated from the past. Though the management and the union both profess to believe in the principle of collective bargaining, in fact they have not acquired the habit of mind which alone makes collective bargaining possible. For that there is no remedy except practice in collective bargaining itself just as among nations there is no remedy for armed diplomacy except the practice of peaceable negotiations. At the moment the law and reason are with Mr. Sloan. But what Mr. Sloan must be concerned about, and with him the public generally, is the fact that this issue should have arisen at all. It should not have arisen.

Successful Diplomacy Does Not Mean Finding Who's Wrong

For successful diplomacy does not consist in deciding who is right in waging a war It consists in not having to make that decision because the war has been averted Mr Martin is wrong in his present position and he must be told that he is wrong. But Mr. Sloan, being interested in operating General Motors rather than in winning a debate, will do well to recognize that the reason Mr. Martin is afraid to negotiate freely is that he and Mr Sloan have not acquired the habit of negotiating with one another. The way to acquire that habit is to negotiate

The far-sighted policy, therefore, is to make a compromise on the question of the strikers in the factories in order to get negotiations under way. I realize that this means a concession which might, say in a public utility, be quite impossible For the public can never, I feel sure, admit that any body of workers may take possession of property and hold it for ransom But Mr. Sloan's task is not to settle the whole industrial problem of the United States He may leave that problem to the government and the public for treatment as and when it arises.

Main Objective Should Be To Lift Labor Relations

Mr. Sloan's task is to operate General Motors, and to do that his main objective should be to lift its labor relations from the level of ultimata and coercion to that of negotiation, bargaining and impartial adjudication. The way to do that is to put his emphasis not on abstract principles and legal rights but on ways and means for inaugurating a new tradition of consultation with his men. It can be done. Other employers have done it. He should have enough confidence in the discernment and in the fairness of the public to believe that his essential rights will be safeguarded.

The General Motors strike must have brought it home to many how primitive is our whole system of industrial relations. Here, for example, are we, men writing editorial comment on the affair, compelled to set ourselves up as more or less self-appointed judge of an extremely complex issue, and all that we have to go on are the exparte statements of advocates on both sides I know how inherently ridiculous it is that men like myself sitting at a desk in New York or San Francisco, should attempt to disentangle the rights and wrongs of a dispute which has its center in Michigan and extends into thirty-five communities. But certainly the press cannot stand by and let the contending parties ruin one another and injure the country as a whole, nor would the public interest be served by enlisting as a partisan of one side and then denouncing the other. That is easy journalism It saves a lot of trouble and it does not displease the partisans on both sides. But it is not, I believe, the way to exercise the functions of a press in a free country.

'Tis All One as if They Should Make His Foot the Standard'

Yet the development of public opinion ought not to depend so much on the discernment of reporters and on the conscience of editorial commentators. For, as Selden said of equity in the seventeenth century when it depended on the Chancellor's conscience: "Tis all one as if they should make his foot the standard. . . . One Chancellor has a long foot, another a short foot, another an indifferent foot: 'tis the same thing in the Chancellor's conscience" The conscience of the public needs assistance if it is to deal justly and effectively with industrial relations, and there should be some recognized and respected way of analyzing these ex-parte statements; that task cannot be done satisfactorily by newspaper men in the first instance and then by suburban commuters at the breakfast table

It is a proper function of government to erect tribunals where issues can be judged by men trained by long experience in judging them. It is not necessary and it is not desirable at this stage of our development that these tribunals should have power to enforce their decisions. There is no recognized body of customary law in this field and until one has been evolved, it is better to rely upon the force of public opinion. Now such tribunals do not exist today. For while tribunals of a sort have been set up under the Wagner act, the statute itself is so manifestly biased, and the administration of it has been so incompetent and so prejudiced that these tribunals are not listened to with respect

Far Better to Enact A New Statute

It would be far better to enact a new statute declaring in general terms that it is the public policy that collective bargaining should prevail among authorized representatives of the management and of the men, to omit all legal coercion from the statute, and then to set up tribunals as far removed as possible from the pressure of partisan politics The success of such tribunals, which relied wholly on their capacity to judge evidence and argument, would depend on the quality of the men selected, and upon whether or not the public felt these men were really free of emotional attachments to either capital or labor.

They would have to be men whose intellectual equipment was great enough to lift them above the pressure and the confusion of clamorous interests. Such men exist. They are public servants of the type of Mr. Eastman in the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. Landis in the Securities and Exchange Commission, Mr Eccles in the Federal Reserve Board In the field of industrial relations it must be possible to find men of their caliber and of their detachment. Those men would have a great opportunity They could lay the foundations for law in the one region of society where primitive anarchy is still the rule.

Rotarians Hear of Improvements for Boy Scout Camp

Camping Committee Chairman Describes Longtime Program for Area

Plans for broadening the program of the 1,800-acre Boy Scout camps at Gardener Dam in Langlade county were described to Rotarians at a noon luncheon meeting at Hotel Northern Tuesday by William E. Schubert, chairman of the Valley Council camping committee. Schubert invited Rotarians to inspect the work already completed in the camp area and said additional help in improving the tract would be welcomed by the committee.

Showing motion pictures taken during the improvement of the camp, Schubert said much already has been done in the way of clearing the timberland and improving the area that now contains the camp lodge, mess halls and cabins Valley council officials, he said, are preparing plans for a building that will house 32 boys for winter camp sessions. This structure, Schubert said, will be surrounded by a cluster of cabins for two or more persons.

Furnish Electricity

Each cabin will have a fireplace and sleeping accomodations for two or four persons and will be equipped with electricity from the new 15-kilowatt power plant. Sanitation has been included in the plans for developing the camp and an adequate water supply also will be provided, the chairman explained.

The new power plant will be equipped to furnish electricity enough to light all the buildings now on the campsite and additional structures which are contemplated, the chairman added This will eliminate to some extent, he said, the use of matches and the danger of fire.

Committees of voluntary workers, Schubert explained, are surveying the camp to see what timber can be logged and what shall be replaced. The conservation program includes staking the camp area and establishment of roadways and fire lanes Ten thousand pine seedlings have been planted in the tract and more trees will be placed, he said

Build Feeding Stations

Bird feeding stations and houses will be placed in scattered portions of the camp to attract game birds and a fish rearing pond has been built at one point in the Wolf river Pictures were shown of the Wolf as it cuts through the campsite to furnish swimming facilities

Two bridges were built across the river near the area where most of the camp activity is concentrated and others are planned as the improvement program continues over a period of years. An endowment fund which was established in the last year is expected to draw gifts from various sources and may pay most of the cost of the proposed work.

Parents of the 500 odd boys who spent the summer at the camp and interested parties have been invited to visit Gardner Dam and spend several days. The winter camp this year attracted more than 20 boys and the new buildings are being planned to provide facilities for larger attendance at future conferences, the chairman added.

Flooding of City Ice Rinks Planned Today

Flooding of the city ice rinks in the various wards is planned today provided the weather remains cold, according to street department officials The rinks are usable but have been only in fair condition as a result of the recent snow and sleet.

Appleton Couple Arrives In Mexico City on Trip

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of letters from Mr. and Mrs J. Bon Davis, Appleton, who are on a motor trip to Mexico City via the new Pan-American highway. The following letter was posted in Mexico City)

We have been in Mexico City just long enough to find out a few mistakes we made when we came

Stick to the Laredo Chamber of Commerce suggestions as to the best hotels. We didn't to our sorrow and had to move.

For meals, eat in hotels, Sanborns, and the Lady Baltimore restaurants The last is an excellent place to go experimenting with Mexican food and getting cake when you order soup from a waiter who thinks he understands English.

Watch the guides—they get up to 50 per cent commission on purchases you make from the shops they take you to This we learned from residents of the city.

Visit Cathedral

Visit the cathedral and national palace. No guide is necessary except in the National palace where excellent ones are available for 58 cents The palace is more than worth while.

The presidential palace is another interesting place to visit and a guide to be found there is highly satisfactory.

As for other points of great interest such as the floating gardens, pyramids, museums and art galleries—a tour party is considered most satisfactory and economical.

The hotel manager may be of great assistance to you in recommending guides although he sometimes favors the guide from whom he collects a commission.

Visit On Market Day

Buy silver jewelry in Mexico City and if buying much in pottery and blankets, go to the city of Toluca on Friday. This is their regular market day and the quality and prices of articles make the 40 mile drive well worth while.

It would take months to cover all the places of unusual attraction in Mexico, but my suggestions cover the possibilities of a three weeks motor trip from Appleton

The suggestions I have given are from friends who live here. I, myself would be in no position to advise

We hate to leave this country where the climate is the same the year round—cool mornings and evenings and warm days.

On our homeward way we expect to stop over in Valles and Don Walker Dam to try some of the hunting and fishing we have learned about.

We'll have some fish stories to tell when we get back

Livestock Bring High Sale Prices

Bulls Raised in 4-H Club Project Sell for $105 Average at Oshkosh

Ten bulls, raised by boys of the 4-H club as part of the rural-urban relations program, were sold at Oshkosh yesterday at an average of $105. The top price was $137.50 for a bull raised by Louis Kuhnz. The purchaser was Allen Haase, Neenah.

The bulls were bought as calves a year ago by the Oshkosh Kiwanis club and were given to 10 4-H club boys to raise. The proceeds, deducting the original price, 6 per cent interest and expenses of the sale, went to the boys.

Sale of bred-sows, a similar 4-H club project, will take place Jan. 28 at Winneconne. The sows were purchased as pigs last spring and were given to boys to raise during the summer months.

It is hoped that through these projects the standard of livestock in this area will be raised The calves and pigs are selected from some of the best herds in the country.

Speaking of Pensions, Pegler Has a Word to Say

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The annual report of the veterans' bureau always brings a sly and somewhat plaintive reminder that there are still persons on the pension rolls whose claim on the national gratitude goes back to the war of 1812. This year there are only two, the widow of Darius King and the daughter of John Hill, privates in the New York State militia.

Pegler

However, the Civil war pension list, though diminishing, is still reckoned in stalwart figures, and the veterans of '93 and the World war have scarcely begun to collect. They will be meeting the postman on the first of the month for many years to come—they and their widows and children and dependant cousins and aunts. Probably when the rolls of the World war finally are closed at the death of the last monegenarian daughter of a man who guarded a reservoir, it will be found that the American soldiers of the world war eventually drew more pay per day of active service than the established rate for the commander-in-chief of the A.E.F.

This will count the discharge bonus, the various state bonuses, the pensions for real and imaginary disabilities, including baldness and total and permanent fatigue, and the adjusted compensation. It will include, also, as time goes on, a refund of the money deducted from the adjusted compensation for interest on premature payments, doubtless with compound interest at 6 per cent, and arrears of disability for unfortunates who succumbed not to the enemy but to lust.

And later the pension rolls will be opened to the mature sons and daughters, possibly even to nephews and grand-children, of the braves.

For the most part this would be only in accordance with established custom, for the United States has always been lavish in this respect, but the soldiers of the big war undoubtedly will introduce some specialties of their own. The American Legion and the V.F.W. are not yet through demanding, and the day of pensions for all is not far away. A nation which pays a pension to the daughters of a soldier 125 years after the war, even though that daughter married, can be relied on to do the right thing.

Some May Object to This Type of Generosity

There may be some who will object to this generosity, but a glance around will show that the people of the country have been even more kind to the descendants of other patriots who fought the battles of speculation, promotion and trade.

Old Peter Widener, of Philadelphia, sold meat to the union armies, and his heirs are still receiving lavish rewards for this patriotic service 70 years after the war. The step-daughter of a current Widener was the subject of a $50,000 debut only a week ago, and Mr. Joe Widener, of Palm Beach and Miami, one of the richest Americans of his time, can trace his condition back to the shrewd course of old Peter.

Off-hand, it may seem a bit thick that people should be asked to get up the money scores of years after a war to give pensions to people who were not even born when the war was on. But it is only when this generosity is proposed for the kin of soldiers that objection is raised. Seldom is it argued that scores, even hundreds of descendants of the original Widener, of John D. Rockefeller, of J. P. Morgan and the staunch manufacturing patriots of New England have lived all these years in luxury on fortunes which were founded in the rear.

Impossible To Reckon The Figures In This Case

There is no reckoning the amount of money which has been earned by the labor of succeeding generations of American working people for the maintenance of countless Astors and Vanderbilts and Goulds at home and abroad. True, some of these fortunes were not exactly founded on the Civil war, but those which were not established then were generously improved by the soldiers who then came home to demand pensions and preference in jobs for themselves and their relatives. But for the soldiers they would have been wiped out.

Veterans of the Spanish war sometimes point out that the war made incalculable wealth for the nation as a whole, and that those who served ask little enough when they put in for pensions. This puts a rather sordid expression on the fair face of patriotism, but perhaps soldiers would be less ready to set a cash value on their devotion if patriots who serve otherwise felt the same way.

It may be an imposition to ask pensions for married daughters of soldiers who have long since died, but the grand-daughters and grandsons and all the jumbled confusion of distant relatives of the old-time, rough-and-tumble American financiers set a difficult example. Some of them are so hopelessly mixed up by divorce and cross-marriage down through the years that they can hardly trace their relationship to the original patriot. Nevertheless, they get their checks regularly and work, to most of them, is only an amusing fad, like dieting, which is called hungering among the lower classes.

I don't believe anyone's descendants and family miscellany deserve support at public expense. But why discriminate against soldiers

Sunday School Has Its Annual Business Meet

Special to Post-Crescent

Leeman — The annual business meeting and election of officers of the Leeman Congregational Sunday school was held Sunday morning following the regular study period. The annual report was read by Secretary Clarmen Larson. Miss Nora Nelson was chairman of the meeting. Mrs. Robert Strong was elected as superintendent for the coming year, and Miss Nelson as assistant superintendent; Amond Olson, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Nels Nelson, cradle roll superintendent.

The teachers are: Mrs. Emil Larson, Mrs. Oscar Nelson, Amond Olson, Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson, Jr., Miss Nora Nelson and Miss Hilma Nelson.

STATE LEGISLATURE BEGINS 1937 SESSION

As the senate and assembly of the 1937 Wisconsin legislature met today to dispose of opening routine and to name officers, one of the questions uppermost in the minds of many persons was the duration of the session. Shown above, on a background of a joint meeting of both houses in 1931 to hear a message of Gov. Philip LaFollette, are the lengths of several sessions. The last legislature set a record for endurance—262 days. The shortest session in history was in 1850 when the legislators met only 34 days.

July 4 and Memorial Day Fall on Sunday in 1937

An early Easter Sunday and two holidays falling on Sundays are oddities of the 1937 calendar. Although July 4 and memorial day fall on Sunday, observance of the holidays will carry over to Monday.

Ash Wednesday, which opens the period of Lent, is on Feb. 10. The date for Easter is based upon the full moon, the council of church in 325 A. D. meeting at Nice having decided that the rising of Christ should be observed on the first Sunday following the Paschal full moon.

The principal reason for this decision was that the pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great yearly Easter festivities. Thus the date of Easter may vary between March 22 and April 25. In 1936 it was on April 12.

Memorial or decoration day, when tribute is paid to the dead, will be on Sunday May 30 while Independence day is on Sunday July 4. Armistice day, always Nov. 11, is on a Thursday while Labor day, always the first Monday in September, will fall on the sixth of the month. Halloween, Oct. 31, falls on Sunday this year.

Thanksgiving day, always the last Thursday of November, will occur Nov. 25. Christmas day and New Year's day fall on Saturday and will provide two double holidays during the year. For those who receive wages on Saturdays, it is interesting to know that there are five Saturdays in January, May, July and October.

Auxiliary at Kimberly Inducts 3 New Members

Special to Post-Crescent

Kimberly — Three new members were initiated into the American Legion auxiliary at its regular meeting at the clubhouse Monday evening. They were: Mrs. Al Adams, Mrs. Ted Vanden Elzen and Mrs. Anton Vanden Boom. A county council meeting will be held at Appleton Monday evening with a 6:30 dinner. Members who wish to attend may make reservations to Mrs. Paul Lockschmidt by Friday.

After the business session cards furnished the entertainment and prizes were awarded as follows: schafskopf, Mrs. Ted Vanden Elzen, first; Mrs. John Vanden Elzen, second; bridge, Mrs. Al Briggs, first; Mrs. J. C. Clark, second; rummy, Mrs. Henry Vanden Boogaard, first; and Mrs. Anton Vanden Boom, second.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tiedeman and Miss Betty Merrit spent the weekend visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pocan, Milwaukee.

Expect More Students In Welding Classes

With fees reduced, it is expected that enrolment in the welding class at the vocational school will increase at the class meeting at 7:15 Monday night. Eight registrations were received last week and two more students are needed before class work can begin, according to Carl Bertram, coordinator. John Marshall is the instructor in charge.

Walter Jordan, Wellsboro, Pa., trapper, caught a golden eagle—rare in his section—in a trap intended for raccoons.

First Aid Teams to Take Part in Contest

Bear Creek—K. E. Edge attended a principals' get-together at Kimber Monday. The principals of the county were invited to a dinner and later a discussion of school problems.

Two first aid teams of Troop 44, Bear Creek, will participate in a first aid contest at Shawano on Saturday. The troops of Clintonville, Shawano, Marion and Bear Creek will take part.

The team members of the Flying Eagle patrol are: Roger Rebman, Robert Norder, Ralph Hurley and Ralph Norder; Wolf patrol: Kenneth Kiekhoefer, David Flanagan, James Kuehlman and Kenneth Klemn.

All band uniforms and instruments are being called in so that the band instructor G. J. Kalick will be able to take complete band inventory.

Semester examinations will be given Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Bear Creek basketball team suffered its first defeat of the season from Seymour. Friday evening. The next game will be 18 to 15. The next game will be played Thursday evening at the Clintonville armory with Shiocton.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Demand Is Heavy For State Tests Of Seed Stocks

Many Samples Sent to Laboratory by Outagamie County Farmers

With but one exception, more samples of seeds were received at the state seed laboratory up to Jan. 1 than was recorded during any of the last 20 years, a department of agriculture report to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent, states.

Seeds, to be legally offered for sale, must be tested. Many samples of corn, alfalfa and red clover, have been sent to the laboratory by Outagamie county farmers, Swanson said.

In spite of the scarcity of seed resulting from the drouth, 300 more samples had been received by the first of the year than for the same date a year ago, the report stated.

Cooperation of the press in publishing a recent departmental news release urging farmers and dealers to send in their samples early to avoid a customary rush in February, March and April, and efforts of Prof. E. D. Holden, secretary of the Wisconsin Experiment association, to bring the same response among farmers and dealers were cited as probable reasons why samples are being sent in much more freely than is usual at this time of the year.

To be prepared to take advantage of prevailing high seed prices and to get more prompt service than is possible when samples come into the laboratory at the rate of 100 or more a day during the rush season, the department urged other farmers and dealers to send their samples as soon as possible.

"If the seed is to be sold or offered for sale, a fee of 25 cents is required by law and must be paid for each sample tested," it was pointed out. "If it is not for sale and is for private use only, the test is free. Anyone who sells untested and unlabeled seed makes himself liable to penalty."

While the work at the state seed laboratory is in charge of the department of agriculture and markets, the laboratory is maintained in the agronomy building at the University College of Agriculture.

C. O. Grandfield, Kansas state agronomist, says poor cropping systems — permitting erosion — is depleting land fertility rapidly in the state.

Receives Report on Business Statistics

The second volume of a series on reports of service establishments presenting findings of the 1935 census of business statistics based on information collected last year has been received at the Appleton Chamber of Commerce from the bureau of census of the United States Department of Commerce. The field canvass was conducted with funds provided by WPA and the reports are on the number of establishments, average number of employes and pay rolls of cities, counties and states.

Complete 1st Round In Faculty Tourney

Eight contestants are still in the running for the Appleton High school faculty ping pong title with first round matches almost completed. The Jorgensen and Storzbach match is still to be played.

In the first round Edward Radtke defeated H. H. Helble by scores of 21-11 and 21-4; John Pierre won over Peter Giovannini by 14-21, 21-18, 23-21; Margaret Thompson defeated Esther Graef, 21-15 and 21-9; Wallace Cole won over Harvey Gygi by 21-13 and 21-17; Marvin Babler defeated Leland Delforge by default; Joseph Shields won over Myrlon Seims, 21-10 and 21-13.

Plan Boy Scout Training Course

Leaders From Northern Towns Will Attend Session at Bowler

A scouters training course sponsored by the Shawano committee will start at Bowler Jan. 26 and continue for two weeks, according to Walter G. Dixon, scout executive. Edward Aschenbrenner, Shawano, district chairman, and Jacob Klein, Shawano, commissioner, will be in charge of the session.

It is expected that scout leaders from Wittenberg, Tigerton, Gresham, Matoon, Leopolis, Eland, Birnamwood and Aniwa will attend the sessions.

The committee assisting in the work is composed of Victor Nygren, Bowler, Dr. O. F. Partridge, Matoon, Melvin Schlyter and William Gates, Wittenberg, and Lyle Cannon, Eland.

Actual training for scoutmasters and committeemen will be started at Shawano Feb. 4 when a second training course is held. Men attending the session will be from the new scout committees.

Sign Contract for County's Share in Police Radio Plan

Highway Police Chiefs Meet to Outline Uniform Operation Rules

A contract for Outagamie county participation in a police radio control system covering Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Waupaca counties has been signed by the county board committee to which authority was given at the November session.

The contract, with a check for $1,000, the county's share of the cost of increasing the wattage of WAKE, Winnebago county police radio transmitter, was taken to Oshkosh this afternoon by Supervisor Louis Bonini, Appleton, committee chairman.

Similar signed agreements, accompanied by payments of $1,000 and $650 respectively, were to be presented today by Fond du Lac and Waupaca counties. In addition, Outagamie and Fond du Lac counties will pay $1,632 each and Waupaca county $400 as their shares of the system's operating costs for one year.

Accompanying Bonini to Oshkosh this afternoon was Captain Charles Steidl of the county highway police, who will meet with heads of highway police for the other three counties in the system. Uniform rules for operation of the control system were to be outlined

A 400 watt transmitter, formerly in use at Des Moines, Iowa, will be purchased of the four-county system, but until it is installed, temporary services will be provided with present equipment. Steps to obtain receiving sets for use by highway police and others participating in the plan will be taken immediately, it is expected.

The county committee in charge of the project is headed by Bonini and includes Supervisors Milo Dempsey, Bear Creek, and Henry Kreutzberg, town of Ellington.

Man Dies While Unloading Grain

No Inquest Will be Held in Death of Joseph Treml, 68, at Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Joseph Treml, 68, route 3, Seymour, died suddenly following a heart attack about 12:30 Tuesday afternoon while unloading grain at the Knauf and Tesch Grain company elevator at 412 Draper street. Following an investigation by H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner, and Raymour P. Dohr, district attorney, it was announced no inquest would be held.

Treml was born Oct 10, 1868, in Austria and settled on a farm at Glenmore near Green Bay. He also farmed at Heeble's Corners and operated a cheese factory and store there before coming to the town of Seymour 13 years ago.

Surviving are five sons, Lucas, DePere; Adolph, William, Bernard and Frank, all of Seymour; three daughters, Mrs. John Linsmayer and Mrs. Ray Bax Seymour, and Mrs Ivan Frenzl, Milwaukee; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Christoph, Luxemburg, and Mrs Louis Schaetz, Glenmore, and one brother, Frank, Glenmore.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

HERE'S ARCHITECT'S SKETCH OF FRONT OF NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

An artist's sketch of what the front of the new senior high school will look like upon completion about April, 1938, is shown above. The sketch was drawn by Eischweiler and Eischweiler and Smith and Brandt, associated architects, who are rushing work on plans and specifications for the structure.

The new building will be erected at a cost of $875,000 on the Badger avenue site, which was selected by the school board and city council after a long controversy. The building will face Badger avenue and all entrances will be on the front of the building.

At the left is the auditorium, while the academic rooms and office quarters are located in the center of the building. At the extreme right is the gymnasium. The auditorium will provide ample space for the entire student body and the new gymnasium will give Appleton high a basketball court for teams in Fox Valley conference competition.

Space for outdoor intramural athletics will be provided in the rear of the building, where the heating plant will be located and at both ends of the building. There is no available space for the intramural program on the present school site.

Architects are attempting to prepare plans and specifications by Jan. 25. It is expected that work will be started on the new building early in spring.

Decrease in Dead Letters At Appleton Post Office

Only 1,126 pieces of mail handled at the Appleton Post office last year were reelgated to the dead letter department, Stephen D Balliet, postmaster, announced today. The total number of cancellations at the office during 1936 was 4,981,300 which means that one out of every 4,423 pieces was not delivered.

Very few of the letters contained anything of value, the postmaster reported. Federal postal regulations provide that any valuables automatically become the property of the government. The principal causes of dead letter mail was that the addressee was not living in the city and had failed to leave a forwarding address. All articles were given inventory service. Very few letters were not delivered because of illegible handwriting.

The unclaimed mail is kept in the post office for a reasonable length of time and then opened. If the name of the sender or recipient is found inside the letter, the missive is forwarded and a fee of five cents charged. Letters containing valuables are kept for a longer period

During the last few years the amount of matter going into the dead letter department has decreased because it is becoming a general practice to put the return address on all mail.

For the last two years each first class postoffice has handled its own undeliverable mail. This was previously sent to Washington. One postal worker is designated to take care of this department.

Old. New Methods Of Transportation Shown by Frieze

A transportation frieze showing methods of conveyance from ancient times to the present is on exhibit in the fourth grade room at Washingtn Grade school The study was undertaken from three angles with separate work stressing the land, water and air types of transportation

Special illustrations were prepared by four students Ralph Braun constructed a model covered wagon with carved horses, Richard Lemke built an ox cart which is drawn by celluloid oxen, Bobby Caldie built a train exhibit from blocks and traced the advancement in types of machinery: Lois Nelson prepared a doll which illustrated a lady carrying a pack.

The project was started last week and will be concluded before semester examinations Mrs Clara E Clark, instructor, was in charge of the project.

Gives Demonstration Of Organ Operations

LaVahn K Maesch, Lawrence college organist, this morning gave a demonstration of pipe organ construction and operation of the Plantz Memorial organ in Lawrence Memorial chapel. Maesch explained the various sections of an organ, the inter-relation of the various manuals, and the use of pedals and stops He also took actual pipes from the organ and showed on the stage the sound which each produces

The concert by Francis Proctor scheduled for this morning was postponed until a later date because of tuning of the organ.

Charlie Grimm Will Again Lead the Cubs

Chicago —(AP)— Manager Charlie Grimm signed his 1937 contract at the annual meeting of the Chicago Cubs today and will direct the club's team for his fifth full season. His salary was not revealed

Grimm, who succeeded Rogers Hornsby in August, 1932, made no predictions other than that he would have "a darned good ball club" in the National League race. He came from his farm near St. Louis to attend the meeting.

Philip K. Wrigley, president, and all other officers and board members of the club were re-elected.

First Sewage Is Treated in City's New Disposal Plant

First sewage was put through the city's sewage disposal plant yesterday and treatment of a permanent flow will be started within the next week or two, according to Frank Fulmer of Greeley and Hansen, consulting engineers on the project.

The sewage now under treatment is being watched and studied in each stage of the process. Although there still is some minor construction work to be completed, the plant now is in working order, according to Fulmer. One of the sludge tanks was heated for a number of days to bring it to the correct temperature before sewage was put into it

A program, formally opening the plant, probably will be held in the spring of the year, according to city officials, but no plans for the program have yet been started.

Construction of the huge system was started in December, 1935.

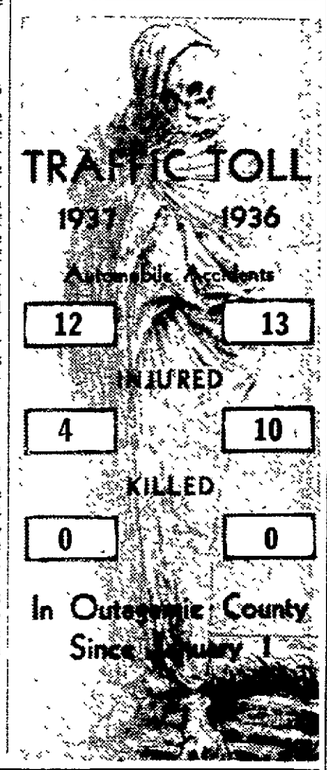

Valley Council to Hold Annual Meet

Invite Dr. Louis Mann, Chicago, as Speaker for Scout Gathering

The annual meeting of Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held Thursday night, Feb. 25, at S. A. Cook armory, Neenah-Menasha, according to Waldo Friedland, Menasha, general chairman. Invitations will be mailed next week. Reservations will be limited to 400 persons.

Mr. Friedland has invited Dr Louis Mann, professor of oriental languages at the University of Chicago, as the main speaker. Mr. Mann also is vice president of the big brothers and big sisters movement in America and associate editor of the magazine, "Unity." He was the main speaker at the national meeting of the Boy Scout organization at Chicago in 1935.

A special committee will be appointed by Mr. Friedland to plan for the meeting.

5 Milwaukeeans Called in Suit

Subpenaed as Witnesses in Action Against First Wisconsin Bank

Milwaukee—(AP)—George A. Affeldt, chief counsel for the state banking commission, said today five prominent Milwaukeeans have been subpenaed as witnesses in the trial of the commission's civil suit against the First Wisconsin National bank

Those subpenaed are General Otto H. Falk, chairman of the board of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company; S. B. Way, president of the Milwaukee Electric company; Oscar Greenwald, vice president of the First Wisconsin.

All but Hadlock were directors of the First Wisconsin National bank and members of its finance and executive committee when loans forming the basis of the suit were made to Isaac J. Rosenberg, head of the defunct Liberty State bank.

Ray Tiegs, former cashier of the Liberty State bank, took the stand yesterday for cross-examination as the trial resumed after a long recess.

Tiegs testified he followed Rosenberg's intructions regarding details of five disputed loans without orders, assistance or suggestions from anyone connected with the First Wisconsin. The banking commission seeks return of the collateral posted by the Liberty State bank.

Demand for Lodging Is Heavy at County Jail

Probably spurred by severe weather, movement of transients to the Outagamie county jail, where night's lodging may be had for the asking, has been brisk during the last few days.

Since Jan. 2, 176 "travelers" have sought shelter at the jail, the number in any one day ranging from 6 on Jan. 7 to 28 the following night the power of attorney and who was also a trustee in the Stanhilber estate of which Mrs. Happ was principal beneficiary.

Allen charged that Edith Stine, former nurse in the Happ home and now wife of Fred Stanhilber, was responsible for the revocation of Hennig's power of attorney and subsequent cancellation of the first will, in which he was named sole trustee of the fund which would have gone to the city.

"If it had not been for Edith Stine and her greed for money, the original will would be in existence today," Allen said

Allen discounted "rumors" that Hennig administered the estate badly, and asserted other influences caused Mrs Happ to lose confidence in a man she had trusted implicitly for 10 years.

Attorney Marian L. Frey, representing Mrs. Spoo, and Charles H. Williams, counsel for Fred Stanhilber, stated that the lower court record showed Mrs Happ was competent to make a personal decision on the questions of revocation of Hennig's power of attorney and the first will.

"Mrs. Happ talked a lot about a Protestant hospital, a school for girls, and similar projects, but she never did anything about it," Miss Frey said.

It Is Said--

THAT Charles Huesemann, Jr., Appleton, and a muskrat both had an unpleasant experience Sunday while Huesemann was angling through the ice of Bob Brook lake in Forest county. Prone on the ice and with a robe over his head to aid vision into the water, as is the custom in those parts, Huesemann was staring down through the hole, his nose almost touching the water, watching for fish. A muskrat, swimming under the ice, spotted the opening and surged up for air, practically nose-to-nose with Huesemann when he reached the surface. From then on, it was just a race to see who could get out of the hole first, Huesemann or the muskrat.

A perfect cribbage hand, good for a count of 29, was held recently by Milton Metz, Desnoyer street, Kaukauna, while playing cards at the Gertz tavern, Kaukauna.

Mr. Metz held three five's and the jack of hearts. He turned the five of hearts. A score of 29 in cribbage is very unusual, according to card experts, and the hand played by Metz was the first of its kind held here within the last several years.

Advise City to Seek School Bids

Another Extension of Building Time Unlikely, Officials Told

City officials were advised today by Leo J. Voell, state PWA director, to advertise for bids on the new senior high school by Jan. 21 so construction work can be started on March 1 An extension of time later than March 1 is unlikely, he said.

The city will be unable to meet the extension date, March 1, unless plans, specifications and proposed contract documents are presented to PWA not later than Jan. 18, he explained. Contractors should be given four weeks to prepare bids because of the size of the job and bids should be opened between Feb 18 and 20.

Additional time will be consumed in summarizing bids and securing the approval of contracts by the PWA administration. The state director pointed out that a week's time will be lost if the first advertisement is not published by Jan. 21.

Highways Get Icy Coating as Light Rain Falls Here

Sleet or Snow Tonight Will Be Followed by Colder Weather

Traffic in the city and on highways was slowed down this morning when a fine drizzle of rain began falling as the mercury rose to near the freezing mark. More rain, sleet or snow is due tonight and will be followed by colder weather tomorrow, according to the forecast of the United States Weather bureau.

Street department workmen were busy this morning spreading sand on slippery walks and intersections. Highways will be in a hazardous condition by morning if the sleet continues and there is no snow.

Maximum and minimum temperatures of 28 and 12 degrees above zero were reported in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Highest and lowest temperatures yesterday were: New Orleans 78, Miami 76; Bismarck 10 below and Lander 8 below.

Expect Cold Wave

(By the Associated Press)

A forecast of "much colder" weather threatened today to cut short the middlewest's breathing spell from the first protracted frigid wave of the winter.

Weather observers looked for a sudden drop in temperatures by tomorrow. A cold wave was brewing in North Dakota and appeared headed for most of the prairie states.

Meanwhile the northwest enjoyed comparatively mild temperatures of 10 to 20 degrees above zero. More moderate weather came to the blizzard-swept rocky mountain area and the sleet-damaged sections of Texas.

Hail and heavy rain accompanied an electrical storm at Los Angeles yesterday. Rain was general over a wide expanse of the south and far west. Although many parts of middlewest and mountain states had freezing temperatures only a few were visited with sub-zero cold.

Bus Snowbound

Seven radio entertainers, one of them a woman, were rescued from their snowbound bus after a night on the Arizona plateau but many other persons were still marooned by deep snows in the mountain region. Hope of finding five persons alive who were lost in an automobile in Nevada was virtually abandoned. A stranded automobile half-buried in snow and sighted from an airplane was believed to hold their bodies

Eastern and southern portions of Texas worked to repair extensive damage by a sleet storm

California fruit growers, taking stock of the damage caused by freezing temperatures, estimated their loss at $12,000,000.

Roosevelt Acts For Long-Needed Federal Changes

Reorganization Idea Not New—Still Faces Battle in Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Like a breath of fresh air in a musty room comes President Roosevelt's message endorsing the report of a special committee which recommends an extensive overhauling and modernizing of the entire executive structure of the federal government.

Lawrence

One may disagree here or there with certain details, but the broad outline is so sensible and so imperative, if we are to make our government effective and efficient, that the only dark cloud on the horizon is the possibility that the champions of the spoils system on Capitol Hill and the arch-deacons of "political pull" in government may succeed in blocking this reorganization plan as they have other plans of similar nature under past administrations.

The idea of reorganizing the executive branch of the government and its numerous commissions and bureaus is not new, having been suggested by Republican as well as Democratic presidents, but it remained for President Roosevelt to take a bold initiative in projecting a plan that really reorganizes.

One is almost tempted to be thankful that Mr. Roosevelt won by his own influence such a huge majority in congress in the last election if the concrete result flowing therefrom now is the actual adoption by an enlightened congress of the plan that has just been submitted to it.

Far-Reaching Proposal

The proposal is far-reaching and constitutes by far the most comprehensive reform that has ever been proposed with respect to the administration side of the federal government. Its weakness is not that it concentrates power in the chief executive, for, in administrative tasks, this is essential, but that it does not provide for the clear definition of the federal function from a policy standpoint so that congress and the executive may both follow more closely the true requirements and obligations of the federal government without adding responsibilities that truly should be left to the states and the cities.

The president's committee which formulated the reorganization plan frankly confessed in its report that it did not consider the policy-making function, as this was something for the executive and congress to handle. But, in the long run, government expenses will increase instead of diminish unless there is some committee or commission which, with the president's backing, is willing to go into the subject of the federal function and mark out constitutional as well as financial limits.

Progress Indicated

The new plan as a whole, however, is a step in the right direction, and when Senator Byrd of Virginia and his committee finish looking into the matter from the congressional aspect, which is also desirable, it is certain that the country will get a real opportunity to know something about the reorganization of the federal machinery. Much of the new plan is necessarily theoretical, if not politically impractical in the sense that it must run the gauntlet of hard-boiled congressional scrutiny plus the effects of an exercise by bureaucracy of its usual capacity for legislative pressure among its friends on Capitol Hill. This has blocked previous legislation on governmental reorganization and may sterilize some of the fine proposals now being made.

Everything will depend on Mr. Roosevelt's own enthusiasm for the plan. He can content himself with the present message and recommendations and feel that he has done his part. He can, in effect, show that it is not he but congress that maintains the spoils system and prevents merit from being introduced in the choice of personnel. But if he wants really to put the full influence of his position and prestige behind the whole plan and get congress to adopt the principles or some form of law that gives Mr. Roosevelt specific power to carry out the details, he can probably, at this stage of his career, force the measure through. Delay would be fatal to the plan, for, if too much time elapses, the whole report will be sniped at and here and there concessions will be made to pressure and the subject may be forced gradually into the future, when other items of controversy on the congressional scene may cause such cleavages as actually to prevent a majority from being mustered for the plan in congress.

Some Points Not Clear

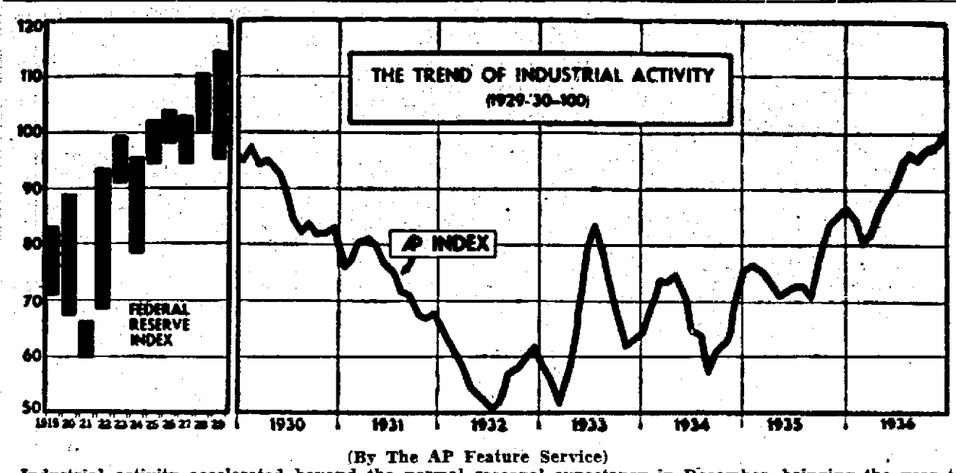

There will be many points in the reorganization plan that will require amplification and discussion. Thus, it is not clear why the comptroller general's office should be abolished and its functions given in part to the department of justice and in part to the treasury. This means that, normally, the handling of the expenditures is turned over to political officers. Much better would be a plan which made the comptroller general's office a part of a regular executive bureau or agency, but with an independent status like the bureau of internal revenue, so that the minimum of interference shall be possible with respect to the judicial decisions of such an auditing bureau.

Likewise, the budget bureau needs more specific limitations and direct responsibilities so it will conform to congressional desire.

Finally, the new plan by no means requires congress to give up its constitutional duty and power to direct the executive what to do, but merely insists that the instructions shall be sufficiently broad and intelligently stated in laws so that an executive bureau can, with common sense discretion, carry them out. What the plan really calls for is an end of hamstringing by means of the customary appropriation bills, yet with responsibility and obligation for expenditures fully defined and subject to full public disclosure to the legislative branch of the government—an ideal long sought by all of us, who have for years been urging and pleading for a modernization of the federal structure to meet the needs of a growing population and the complexities of our present day economic life.

Industry Gains on Five Fronts in December

(By The AP Feature Service)

Industrial activity accelerated beyond the normal seasonal expectancy in December, bringing the year to a close with business volumes in several basic lines the best in seven years. The Associated Press adjusted index of industrial activity averaged 100.4 per cent of the 1929-30 average in December, up from 97.8 in November, and at the highest level since November 1929. Automobile, steel, electric power production, freight movement and cotton manufacturing all registered further gains in the final month of the year, after adjustment for seasonal variation. Of the six components of the index, only residential construction receded a little.

Hollywood—Unreel parade:

The times so unsettled are, as Tess Slesinger said fictionally, that film makers must have a care. Fritz Lang wanted to film a story about the next war. After consultation with various foreign ambassadors he learned he could make it, all right. But after making it there would be just about two countries in which he could show it, the other being Siam. . .

Most fitting gesture of the month: world-premiering "Camille," the heroine consumed by more than love, on the dessert. . . Garbo is sepulchrally beautiful in this one, and Robert Taylor surprises with his first job of acting. . . . Claudette Colbert, and most of the women present, wept at the preview. . .

Lily Pons sings, acts cute and walks out on two weddings in "That Girl from Paris," which shows but faint similarity to Betty Compson's early talkie, "Street Girl." . . . Lee-Lee, surrounded by a mad male quartet composed of Gene Raymond, Jack Oakie, Mischa Auer and Frank Jenks, is really very cute. . . And Lucille Ball, in her first big role, makes a bid to take Ginger Rogers' place as Fred Astaire's partner. . .

After the preview, fans lined up outside for Gene and Jeanette MacDonald, who emerged and sailed through the crowd which fell back respectfully. A disgusted young woman, poised to tackle, withdrew with the rest, but muttered: "These Westwood and Beverly Hills people are too polite—they let 'em get away. . . ."

Those long movie titles are reducing the weary marquee-lighters to efforts like this, seen on a Vermont avenue theater: "Mag. Brute —Valiant Carrie. . . ."

Easiest marquee problem was presented by "M". . . . And I doubt if there has been a tougher one than "I's Glad My Boy Grew Up To Be a Soldier," which someone perpetrated in 1915. . . Incidentally, the shortest possible title has never been used. . . Just "T". . . .

Clark Gable says he used to be embarrassed in heavy love scenes.

Hollywood, where fame lights and flits, is not strong on enduring memorials. . . If a monument to Schumann-Heink is erected, it will be only the second. . . The other (to Valentino) stands in a tiny park, where occasionally an extra girl has made a bid for notice with a "suicide attempt." . . . A bronze plaque on a sound stage is tribute to Will Rogers, and another plaque marks where the first Hollywood movie was made—but the plaque has been moved with the building that was on the site. . . .

You've probably heard by now, but it was Al Boasberg who said Mrs. Simpson was gone-with-the-Windsor. . . .

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disfiguring little spots often result from a slight, temporary disturbance, or merely from incorrect cleansing, or sometimes they are more persistent due to deeper internal causes.

While properly treating the underlying cause, you can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and help your skin by using an ointment that will keep the medication in contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.

For more than 40 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritation and aids healing. It also treats the oil pores where many surface pimples start. Washing first with Resinol Soap quickens the pleasing results.

Buy a jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap from any druggist. For free sample write Resinol, Dept. 10, Baltimore, Md.

Careful Packing Of Eggs Increases Hatching Chances

Placing Large Ends Up Helps Prevent Breakage, Bureau Reports

Hatching eggs to be hauled or shipped to a hatchery should be packed snugly in the case with the large ends up, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

A report by Berley Winton, in charge of the poultry office of the bureau of animal industry, states that hatching eggs are less likely to be broken when in this position than if they are packed with the small end up.

Each normal egg has an air cell at the large end, Mr. Winton explains, and it is necessary that the membrane separating the inner portion of the egg from the shell membrane neither be broken or shaken loose. Research at the national agricultural research center, Beltsville, Md., has shown that eggs with tremulous air cells hatched only two-thirds as well as the eggs which had normal air cells. Packing the eggs with the large end up removes the pressure from the inner membrane.

Mr. Winton cautions that the egg case should never be placed on the bumper of an automobile, as the vibration at this point is possibly much greater than on the floor inside the car. If the hatching eggs are hauled in a wagon or truck the bed should be matted with straw, which serves as a shock absorber.

In the early part of the hatching season it is necessary to gather eggs often as hatching eggs should not be allowed to chill. They should be stored at a temperature ranging from 50 degrees to 60 degrees F. A frost-proof cellar or basement is usually a good place for storage.

Tests also have shown that hatching eggs should not be held longer than a week to ten days before delivery to the hatchery, Mr. Winton says. Held longer, the eggs decrease in hatchability.

John Roderick Clark, middle-aged civil servant, was sent to jail for six months at Edinburgh for stealing 570 books from four-cent libraries.

A FARMER BOY

ONE of the best known medical men in the United States was Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, New York, who was born on a farm in Pa. He noted daily in his medical career that many of his prescriptions prepared from roots, barks, and herbs, such as his "Favorite Prescription," produced astonishing results.

He early founded a Clinic and Hospital in Buffalo, N. Y. Advice by letter is free.

For young girls growing into womanhood, for women in middle life going through the "change," or those who suffer from backache, headache, nervousness and discomforts associated with functional disturbances, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the vegetable tonic needed. It stimulates the appetite. New size, tabs. 50c., liquid $1.00 and $1.35.

"ENLIGHTENED INTERPRETATION"

For one usually precise in his diagnosis of public ills and prescription of suitable remedies, Walter Lippmann has advanced a curious sort of argument to support Mr. Roosevelt in his unannounced but, according to Mr. Lippmann, open purpose of having the supreme court through the medium of the expression "legitimately implied" powers confer upon congress and the President authority the people have never given them.

Mr. Lippmann says that only "by an enlightened interpretation" of the constitution and not by its amendment can the powers for social reform be safely developed.

We must recognize the expression "enlightened interpretation" which we suspected of the expression "legitimately implied," as one employed to placate the people while they were being despoiled of their rights. Because "enlightened interpretation" means no interpretation at all but a forceful extraction of power for those to whom the power does not belong.

Mr. Lippmann justifies this thinly veiled attack upon the power reposing in the people as essential because "no amendment can be drafted which widens the powers of congress enough to validate all that the court outlawed and still preserve even a semblance of limitation on those powers."

We are not prepared to surrender to this confession of defeat. No one that we know of has yet attempted to put into the form of an amendment the proposed rights which the Administration wishes but which have not been conferred upon it by the people. To admit or allege that we cannot word such an amendment safely is to exhibit a feeling of defeatism that would have been disastrous for us all had it prevaded that convention in Philadelphia in 1787 that had a much more difficult job in carving a nation literally out of the wilderness despite the petty jealousies of the 13 separate nations of which it was to consist.

The utmost candor is necessary in dealing with every constitutional question. If there must be some brake upon congress and yet some concession of power too, and it is the desire of the Administration that that brake be the supreme court why should not the amendment specifically so say? Then at least the people will understand that they have lodged power in the supreme court to control any wild antics of an occasional congress instead of permitting politicians with unscrupulous methods to belabor the supreme court as though it were the means of preventing the people from obtaining the happy conclusion of their ambitions.

For well over a century the supreme court has been supplicated to succumb to ambition and embrace powers not granted to it. These pleadings have occasionally come from presidents, often from members of congress, constantly from able lawyers concerned with some client's welfare, insistently from welfare organizations, none of which appreciated the great principle at stake and the hazard that is faced when departure is taken from the safe anchorage of the American system and tradition.

Mr. Lippmann's idea that it is better to permit the supreme court by "enlightened interpretation" to actually strip the constitution of its flesh is only one form of the insistent hammering to which the court has been constantly subjected but has constantly rejected.

The court, unflustered by the turmoil, sticks to its oath of office. It is the most loyal friends the people of the United States have.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

A justice of the peace may not always qualify as another Solomon but he administers a kind of justice that is calculated to reform one type of offender.

A farmer reported the theft of fourteen cords of stove wood. Those fourteen cords represented a certain amount of tiresome labor in sawing and splitting. A neighbor was hauled into court and admitted the theft.

The sentence was that the culprit must double the amount of stove wood for his neighbor or spend the next six months in jail.

He has started to work with buck saw and axe. Before those twenty-eight cords of wood have been stacked, it is safe to say he will have a better idea of the value of labor.

In that respect the justice seems to have hit upon a principle of punishment which deserves a wider trial. Too many of those persons brought into court for theft, particularly among younger offenders, have no real idea of values. The stolen dollar is merely a dollar to them. It has no significance as a measure of labor. The act of stealing the dollar is, probably an effort to avoid labor. In event of conviction, punishment only infrequently entails a type of labor that has a dollar-value.

Could the principle of justice administered by the justice be given wider application, there is reason to believe it would have wholesome effects. The threat of like punishment should discourage some persons contemplating theft. Its application certainly would instill an increased respect for the value of a dollar as a measure of labor among those serving sentences.

HELLION

The sketches of Dore illustrating Dante's Inferno which for long served as the most perfect depictions of evil must be replaced.

For now and again, infrequently it is true, though frequently enough, a Thing, more sinister because of its resemblance to a man and with the atrocious cunning of a fiend walks the green earth for a brief spell infecting everything with its foul presence.

Men recoil from it through instinctive hate. Untold they yet realize that it is a monstrosity, a throwback from the jungle, something created in a very frenzy of perversion and with the cold and glittering eye of a serpent.

In the form of Hauptmann it struck in New Jersey. It has just polluted Tacoma.

Wanton murder rates high in the evil lists of crime. But wanton murder for money rates higher. Yet the wanton murder of a happy boy of ten, the crushing in of his head lest his uncorrupted tongue some day speak evidence in court, rates far above the other crimes. But when you add to this horrible concoction the fact that the offense was committed to capitalize upon the God-inspired devotion of parenthood into which was poured a generous amount of duplicity with the purpose of killing the child and thus removing any possible evidence or the danger of his return and at the same time obtaining a ransom based upon his safe release, we have reached the very pinnacle of crime and cruelty and depravity. Further all the designers of past outrages could not contrive.

The Thing at Tacoma will be found just as Hauptmann was found. It will be found because every force of Nature is outraged and recoiling at what has transpired. The earth and the heavens are more distorted and disarranged by such a crime than if a tornado had devastated an extensive area.

The Thing will not understand the tremendous forces that are working to its ruin. It will not appreciate why men feel its presence, the malignancy of its soulless eyes, the malice of its corroded heart, the poison of its fetid breath.

Nature simply demands that this evil apparition be caught and the mistaken life housed within its morbid flesh snuffed out that it may no longer degrade habitations with its viciousness. The Thing does not realize that if it can live and act and still live again the earth is out of balance.

No more awful occurrence could be invented than the Tacoma crime. It was not perpetrated by a human being. It was accomplished by "a monster begot upon itself, born on itself."

If it be said that the offense should be softened by a consideration of the madness of the culprit let it be realized that the means employed in concealing the child, in avoiding capture, even in destroying the child to hide evidence, are all proof of something more cunning than madness.

And let it be realized, too, that the tendency of humankind, both decent and weak though it be, to cover up awful offenses with the plea of insanity instead of exterminating the perpetrator, may be a very material cause of the continuance of such offenses.

CONGRESS ALWAYS HAS AN ODD FELLOW

Is Minnesota trying to again obtain the distinction of sending a queer man to congress?

A representative of Minnesota called Bernard cast the one vote against the unanimous consideration of the neutrality resolution in the effort to immediately cut off shipment of munitions to Spain.

Bernard, we find, was born on the same little island that gave birth to Napoleon. Instead of trying his talents in France he selected America.

Whether his ambition is to emulate Napoleon or Shoemaker or Zioncheck is not entirely clear at this writing, but his first vote was at least queer.

It puts the welfare of Spain ahead of America.

O. L. Amsler, principal of Boys' high school of Decatur, Ga., received his degree from the North Georgia college at Dahlonega in 1918, while serving with the U. S. infantry in the trenches in France.

In 1905 a railroad engineer was dismissed for whipping his locomotive to "make it go faster" through Cullman, Ala.

Five states, Massachusetts, Maine, Kansas, South Dakota and Iowa, have greater Republican representation in the new congress than in the preceding one.

JUSTICE rampant is now looking for the kidnaper-murderer of little Charles Mattson . . . eventually he will be found, ransom money or no ransom money . . . and when he is found it is my sincere hope that none of what went with the Hauptmann case will be allowed to enter here . . . despite the mistaken impression one gets about things in this country now and then, Roman circuses, characterized by the New Jersey trial, are not a normal part of the American picture . . .

The disposal of Doctor Frank from educational circles—at least temporarily—was accomplished with neatness and dispatch.

What to do about Coach Harry Kipke of Michigan, however, seems to be taking more time and greater discussion. Despite the fact that Professor Kipke used to have very fine teams and that he is now president of the American Football Coaches' association, his gladiators have won but six games in the past three years and the Michigan situation is very serious. Tad Wieman, who was a Michigan coach with a better percentage than that, was summarily bounced. George Little got out before his record caught up with him and went to Wisconsin to stick out his neck. I believe the book would show that his average also was better than two wins per season at Michigan.

Anyway, what I started out to say was that a president can be disposed of with the abovementioned neatness and dispatch while it takes considerable time and wrangling to get rid of a coach, particularly if his teams used to win.

Michigan needn't think, however, that firing Kipke will remedy the situation for at least a time. Yep, Minnesota is still playing in the Big Ten.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

BACK HOME

I know my eyes grow stronger
When I rest them on the fields,
Where the sunlight lingers longer,
And the fresh seed yields;

Where the clear air is untroubled
By curling smoke and steam:
Where Mill Creek has ever bubbled,
And the pale fish gleam.

I know my soul grows stronger
When I look away,
Where thought grows deep and longer
When the hair is gray.

For in the sweet reviewing
Of days gone by,
My spirit is renewing
Acquaintance with the sky.

Dr. L. A. Youtz, professor of chemistry at Lawrence college, has been granted a leave of absence during the second semester of the present school year, and will leave with Mrs. Youtz on Jan. 29 for the south and west. He plans to do research work at Leland Stanford university in California for three months.

George L. Madson was elected president of the Jersild Knitting company, Neenah, Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting of stockholders. Gustave Kalfahs was elected vice president; L. J. Pinkerton, secretary and treasurer; George L. Madson, E. E. Jandrey, Carl Jersild, L. Pinkerton and Gustave Kalfahs, directors.

Manawa is to have a motion picture theater in the near future. F. H. Goetz and son, Leonard, have made arrangements with K. M. Bard for the building recently occupied by the F. F. Bard general store. They will have the building remodeled and expect to open about the first of February.

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Dale was dedicated Sunday with three services. The Rev. F. A. Reier is the pastor. On the building committee were Frank Schroeder, Joe Schwerke, Herman Schmidt, Frank Giebel, Fred Drews and the Rev. Mr. Reier.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

KEEP YOUR FEET WELL AND DON'T LOSE YOUR HEAD

An article about chiropody or podiatry published in this column recently implied that a person who has had a regular four year high school ocurse may enter a good school of chiropody-podiatry and take a single year of instruction there to qualify for a license to practice. I fear this was a bit behind the times. Numerous readers, medical and podiatral, if there is such a word, have called my attention to the fact that the recognized school of chiropody-podiatry requires that the student attend three full years, not just one year, as I assumed.

That's not so good. Why not add another year or two and graduate the student as a physician?

The president of the foremost school of chiropody-podiatry, a physician of high standing, tells me . . . "We have an absolute charter from the Regent . . . and are hopeful when the time comes to graduate the entrance class of 1940 that the title now given our graduates (Pod. G.) will be but a memory in the face of the degree, 'Doctor of Podiatry.'"

What did I tell you?

The great trouble with this country is that we have too much education and not enough training, practice or experience. Too much bok stuff and not enough apprenticeship. Too much science and not enough art. We're great on telling how it should be done, but we haven't the skill to do it. This applies to physicians, or medicine, dentors or dentistry, nurses and nursing, and chiropody-podiatry too.

I hope the day will never come when the graduate of the school of chiropody-podiatry will be privileged to call himself "Doctor of Podiatry."

In New York State some years ago the legislature gave optometrists the privilege of calling themselves "Doctor of Optometry" or something like that. Such legalized humbug is an insult to public intelligence. It would be quite as proper and reasonable to give barbers the right to call themselves "Doctor of Capilliculture." You can fool some of the people some of the time.

A chiropodist or podiatrist who I believe has had a full four-year high school course and then a year in a school of chiropody is quite good enough to take care of my feet any time. I should have no more confidence in a chiropodist or podiatrist who had spent two or three years in a chiropody school.

A nurse who has had two years of training in a good hospital training school, is quite good enough to take care of me when I am ill. I should have no more confidence in a nurse who has been kept another year doing chamber work and the like for the shrewd men who run the hospital.

A considerable share of the high cost of medical care must be charged up to hifalutin notions about the training of physicians. The medical schools today turn out, not physicians, but would-be specialists, and the scramble of these mis-cast specialists for a living brings Medicine pretty low.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Strange Notion

I have too much phosphate in my system. Would like to know whether dates and raisins contain phosphate. I eat a great deal of these and notice my bladder becomes irritable every time I eat them. . . . (L. M.)

Answer—Both raisins and dates tend to diminish acidity of urine. Foods richest in phosphorous are lean beef, eggs, wheat, cheese, milk, beans. It is doubtful whether you can get too much phosphorous. I don't know how you arrive at the conclusion that your system contains too much phosphate. Perhaps you eat too much cereal or cereal derivatives. Not enough fresh raw relishes such as raw carrot, raw turnip, raw apple, raw cabbage, lettuce, celery, tomato, citrus fruits.

Subsequent Visits Same Price

Four members of our family have been greatly benefited in health by your Iodin Ration. So here we are again. . . . (Mrs. C. E.)

Aneswer—Glad to send the instructions for taking Iodin Ration to any old (feeling) party who asks for it and incloses three-cent-stamped envelope bearing his address. Don't know whether it restores pristine color to graying hair or new life to the chronically tired individual who has gone stale and feels let down and gloomy about things. Merely say in my judgment every adult who feels or looks prematurely old needs a suitable daily ration of iodin.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Tom Paprocki, sports cartoonist, wears shirts only of midnight hues. . . They run to deep blues, black, greens and reds, because, as he points out, "they keep clean longer."

Sylvia Sidney's name is Sophia Kosow.

Horace Heidt, the bandsman, is a crack amateur photographer and clutters up his apartment with "dark" rooms and developing fluids. . . . He also collects first editions of sheet music published prior to 1914.

Melvyn Douglas' last name is Hesselberg.

Afrique, the impersonator, takes his name from Africa, where he was born. . . . It almost ruined his act when the King abdicated, his best bit being a marvelous takeoff on His ex-Majesty.

The records reveal that Bill Gaxton's name is really Gaxiola.

Kitty Carlisle's name is Kathryn Kahn.

Sasha Siemel, who is known as The Tiger Man (because he captures them with his hands and shoots them with bows and arrows), is a cultured Russian and speaks six languages fluently.

Helen Hayes' last name is Brown.

Our Mother Goose note for the week includes mention of a bakery in Queens which is called The Ginger Bread Man. . . There is also a writer in New York named "Little" Jack. Horner. . .

The Murray Hill hotel is on the exact site where Washington once flew into a rage after a not too successful duel with the British. . . . When his men retreated he lashed at them with his sword, and called them names. . . . History doesn't record whether he smiled.

Every inch of scenery in Broadway theaters is inspected once each week—to minimize fire hazards and to cut down insurance rates. . . . Another precaution is the application of a shellack-like substance having an asbestos quality. . . No bit of theatrical scenery, however fragile, is exempt.

Durelle Alexander, petite diseuse with Paul Whiteman's orchestra and the Ritz Revue, confounds Fifth Avenue cops because she likes to sing folk songs while strolling past shop windows.

Nancy Carroll is really Nancy LaHiff.

You rarely see Chinese in the after-dark palaces in New York. . . But the Japanese are enthusiastic entertainers and go everywhere. . It would be hard to walk into any of the better nightclubs without encountering a party of these alert, courtly little gentlemen.

Edgar Allan Poe employed many pseudonyms during his New York days. . . . He once wrote under the name of Hans Pfaal. Another pseudonym was Quarles Quickens.

Your Birthday

'CAPRICORN"

If January 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m., from 5 to 7 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m.

Money may prove to be a disturbing factor in this day's affairs, so do not allow it to involve you in either quarrels or worry. Undue concern over it never has done, and never will do, any good. Faith in your ability is the most important thing for you to have, and somehow, in some way, you are apt to find a happy solution of your problems. Plain speaking this day probably will accomplish what beating-around-the-bush, will fail to do, for the average person admires frankness. Influences conducive to a change for the better, in the fortunes of many born on this date, seem to be actively at work. Watch where you step this day, for accidents are liable to happen to pedestrians, especially of the "jay walking" variety. Married and engaged couples, and those whose matrimonial hopes are centered on some one particular person, must be careful that through some hastily drawn conclusion, they are not guilty of committing a great injustice.

If a woman and January 14 is your birthday, excessive vanity, jealousy and suspicion must be guarded against by those people of Capricorn, whose birthday anniversary this is. You ought to be very capable, with plenty of executive ability. You should be a convincing talker. Your mind may be more mathematical than artistic, although you love beautiful things, wearing apparel being no exception. As a private secretary, buyer, librarian, professional or business woman you may win a fine reputation. The husband of your choice ought to be fully capable of making you as happy as you make him.

The child born on January 14, usually, when it reaches its teens, lays the foundation on which will be reared a worthwhile career. Success seems predestined to crown this youngster's efforts throughout its life.

If a man and January 14 is your natal day, in whatever activity you engage you have good chances of being a leader. As a soldier, lawyer, inventor, surgeon, politician, writer or educator your services ought to be in great demand.

Successful People Born on January 14:

Henry Baldwin, jurist and congressman.

Joseph Kent, physician and statesman.

John L. Lay, inventor.

Francis Kernan, statesman.

Morton McCarver, pioneer.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Well, it seems that Rush Holt, the Peck's bad boy of the senate, has been whipped—whipped in one of the several ways a senator can be whipped by his party colleagues—having his petty patronage cut off.

It must have left the West Virginian in a sorely depressed frame of mind. Perhaps he will abdicate and rush for solace to the hills of Western Austria, doing penance meantime by reading a share of the Sunday service.

Long ago he began cutting up about patronage, and the result, so he vehemently told the senate, was that even more of his patronage in West Virginia was cut off in favor of his colleague, Senator Neely.

Now comes the coup de grace. Two elevator boys and a capitol policeman (the lads usually hold the jobs while they go to school) will lose their jobs. School boys favored by some of the newer and more patient senators will get the job of running the elevators and, in the case of the policeman, telling visitors where not to park automobiles.

Fly-Swatting Gesture

The word came from the unofficial committee on senate patronage which explained that Holt "gave comfort, if not aid, to those who were seeking to defeat the Democratic national ticket, and also opposed the election of a Democrat to the United States senate."

In his campaign against Neely's re-election, Holt insisted he had a better record of Roosevelt support than his colleague. For his own election in 1934 he campaigned on a 100-per-cent-Roosevelt platform. Besides opposing Neely, Holt emphasized his independence by keynoting Father Coughlin's social justice convention in Cleveland and by conferring with Governor Landon during the campaign.

There is no doubt about it, Holt has been a naughty boy in his party relations and not much help legislatively speaking. He introduced only one measure last session and that was to request an investigation of the WPA in West Virginia.

But to some disinterested observers, cutting off his senate patronage seemed a sort of fly-swatting gesture. Even the recalcitrant Huey Long, who cut 10 times the figure of young Holt, kept his senate patronage. A capital policeman he chose held his job all during the time Huey was barking the shins of fellow senators and even going after the prince of patronage princes, Postmaster General Farley.

Own Worst Enemy

After all, Holt has been his own most formidable antagonist. By filibustering against the Guffey coal bill he alienated the coal miner support that helped elect him in 1934. Instead of making a record as a liberal in the senate he plowed out a pile of his West Virginia troubles and sought to market them on the senate floor as a national issue.

Where his colleagues might have left him alone as a troublesome but perhaps upcoming youngster eligible to learn, they chose instead to crack down on him by snatching away his elevator boys and policeman.

It appears to many that someone must have forgotten that the senate has four years of Holt coming up. A senate youngster spanked by his colleagues for speaking out too loud about his portion at the dinner table can slam a lot of doors and track in a lot of mud in four years.

Finds Profession in Experiment With Trees

Pensacola, Fla. —(AP)— Mrs. Anna M. Shafer, "gentlewoman farmer" and authority on Satsuma orange culture, finds herself in that position because of her confessed inability to "just sit here and waste my time."

Widowed in 1926, she determined to try her hand at horticulture, although she admits she knew very little about it.

Mrs. Shafer's first efforts were with Satsuma oranges and her success is shown by a grove of 4,500 trees.

Five years ago she became interested in tung trees and planted one of the first groves in this section. Tung trees produce the nuts from which is extracted a vegetable oil, used extensively by paint and varnish manufacturers.

Mrs. Shafer has developed groves of pecan, Japanese persimmon, blueberries and pears. There are 10,000 trees on the developed 160 acres of her land.

Founding of Swedish Colony to be Observed

Wilmington, Del. — (AP) — Plans are under way to celebrate in 1938 the tercentenary of the birth of New Sweden with federal, Swedish and several state governments participating.

Eighteen years after Pilgrims first set foot on Plymouth rock, another group of settlers — the Swedes — landed on the fertile banks of a calm river 300 miles to the south and took possession of the country in the name of the Swedish crown.

Thus was founded the colony of New Sweden that existed in its own right from 1638 until 1655 and left a lasting impression on the culture and government of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Foremost in the aims of those in charge of the celebration is acquisition for park purposes of the landing place of the pioneers.

Approximately 36,307 full-blood Indians live in Oklahoma, according to a recent census.

2 Cars Damaged In Traffic Crash

Occupants Uninjured in Mishap on Slippery Road Near Seymour

Special to Post-Crescent

Black Creek—Automobiles driven by Robert Masch and Irvin Melchert, students at Seymour High school, collided about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon on their way home from school, about a half mile west of Seymour on Highway 54. near the John Walter corner.

Owners of the cars are their fathers, the Rev J. C. Masch and August Melchert. Both youths were driving west, the Melchert machine leading, when it skidded on the ice and Irvin lost control of the car. The Masch car couldn't stop soon enough to avoid a collision.

The radiator, front fenders and windshield on the Masch car were badly damaged but the rear of the Melchert car was only slightly damaged. No one was injured.

Other students in the Masch car were Leone Peters, Ruth Volkman, Ellen Masch, Loretta Presteen and Kenneth Kringel. Dora Melchert was with her brother, Irwin.

New Organ Is Planned For Church

MEMORIAL PRESBYTERIAN church will have a new organ by the first of September as the result of a decision made yesterday by the Presbyterian Guild, women's society of the church. The Guild has for some time been collecting funds for the project, and after a detailed report given by Mrs. Harold Heller at the meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Robert K. Bell, 216 N. Durkee street, the organization voted to buy the organ.

Ways and means of raising the additional money needed were also discussed. It is expected that a food sale, to be given in the near future will be the first means.

Mrs. Harold Heller was in charge of devotions at the meeting, which was attended by about 35 persons. Hostesses were Mrs. W. B. Thompson, Mrs. Heller, Mrs. Paul Derr and Mrs. F. E. Volkman.

Winners last night as play continued in the weekly contract bridge tournament at the Conway hotel were Mrs. J. I. Monaghan and Mrs. William J. Foote, high for north and south, and David Smith and Peter Sinner, first for east and west. North and south second were H. A. De Baufer and Mrs. Royall La Rose, while Mrs. E. W. Douglas and Mrs. Maurice Peerenboom finished third. Playing east and west, Mrs. H. A. De Baufer and Mrs. Don Morrissey were second, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Long, third.

Women Hear Of Jewish Movement

THE Second Aliyah or Jewish immigration to Palestine which began in 1905 after the pogroms or massacres which swept over Russia was discussed in a paper by Mrs. Walter Roenzweig at the meeting of Appleton chapter of Hadassah, National Jewish Women's society, Tuesday afternoon at Appleton Womans club.

This movement was of value because it created the first cells of a new pioneer society in Palestine through the development of new values, new social relationships and principles of conduct, said the speaker, also because it specified self-labor as the basis of a new community; it paved the way for national colonization and impressed its principles on the Zionist organization and showed Jews how a national home could be established, and it established a new type of man, the Jewish peasant, and a new form of labor organization embracing all types of workers. Mrs. Rosenzweig also pointed out that as a group it constituted the first body in which Hebrew became a living language and established the first farms for the training of women pioneers where men and women were treated equally.

Names Pathfinders

Two men are considered pathfinders in this movement, said the speaker, naming J. C. Brenner, a novelist and publicist, and Zitkin, a school teacher. The latter appealed to young people outside of Palestine to come in as pioneers, outlining the hardships to be encountered there, and as a result there was a great influx of people between the ages of 18 and 25 into Palestine. An outstanding trait of the pioneers there, said Mrs. Rosenzweig, was the close interweaving of national and social ideals, for they wanted no copy of the situation prevailing in European countries.

Principles of the new community in Palestine were self-labor, equality of rights of the settlers and the colonizing agency. The pioneers spoke no language but Hebrew, and did not participate in meetings or gatherings until they had mastered the language. Aaron David Gordon stands out as a symbol of the Second Aliyah, said the speaker. He advocated caution in relations with the Arabs and told his followers not to infringe on the rights of land owners, but rather pay much more than the land was worth in order to keep good will.

Mrs. A. Sigman led a discussion on current events after the talk. Conferences of the American Lutherans and of the Pro-Palestine Federation of America were discussed, also the raising of $48,000,000 by the Jews in this country for charity during 1936, 91 per cent of which was spent in the United States. The members also spoke of Toscanini's concert.

Hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. Rosenzweig, Mrs. Harry Ressman and Mrs. S. Shiff.

Start Ticket Sale for 1st Play to be Sponsored by Edison School PTA Group

TICKETS were placed on sale yesterday for "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" which will be staged at 3:30 Thursday afternoon Jan. 28 as the first of three plays sponsored by the Edison School Parent Teachers association. The play will be presented by the Clare Tree Major company, childrens' theater of New York, at the Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Because the supply of tickets is limited, definite allotments were made to each public and parochial school. Each child in the public schools also received a circular describing the play. All seats for the plays are reserved and student tickets may be exchanged at Bellings Drug store for a reserved seat ticket at no extra charge. Adults may purchase tickets at the store for one or all of the productions.

The three plays being sponsored are "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Jan. 28; "Sleeping Beauty," April 6; "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," May 5. The ticket committee is headed by Mrs. E. F. Mielke and she is assisted by Mrs. Carleton Saecker, Miss Martha Sorenson, Mrs. William Gallaher and Mrs. Fred Heinritz.

Because "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm" has been one of the most popular storybook heroines of all time, the play is being presented as the first offering of the association.

The story revolves around Rebecca, a young girl who has come to live at the Brick house to get an education and be properly brought up by her mother's older sisters. Her home, the old farmhouse which she calls "Sunnybrook" because she loves the little brook which meanders across the meadow, is overfilled with hungry children whom their widow mother is hard put to provide for.

Besides, hovering over the entire place is the spirit of a horrible ogre, the mortgage which mother keeps in the top bureau drawer and sometimes takes out and cries over. So Rebecca valiantly comes to the Brick house to study hard and learn so that some day she may earn enough money to "make that mortgage tuck its tail between its legs and run."

IN LEADING ROLE

When the play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," is presented Thursday afternoon Jan. 28 at Lawrence College chapel, Betty McDonald will play the part of Rebecca, as shown above. The play will be staged by the Clare Tree Major company, childrens' theater of New York, and is the first of three productions planned by the Edison School Parent Teachers association.

Miss Julia Burich And Raymond Grasser Wed at Reedsville

Miss Julia Burich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Burich, route 2, Brillion, and Raymond Grasser of McHenry, Ill., were married at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Mary's Catholic church, Reedsville, the Rev. William Koutnik performing the ceremony. Attendants were Miss Helen Burich, Miss Mary Burich, Rudolph Vancura and George Kanter.

The wedding breakfast and dinner were served at the home of the bride's parents to immediate relatives, among whom was Rudolph Vancura of Crystal Lake, Ill. The young couple will make their home at 219 Lake street, Waukegan, Ill., the bridegroom being employed at the Johns-Manville company in that city.

Kaukauna Woman Heads Alumnae Group

Mrs. George Greenwood, Kaukauna, was named president of Alpha Chi chapter of St. Mary Springs academy alumnae at a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Copper Kettle restaurant. Mrs. Paul O'Brien, Menasha, was elected vice president and Miss Rose Schmitz, Appleton, secretary-treasurer.

Bridge was played after the dinner, prizes going to Miss Elizabeth Dohr and Mrs. A. E. Bachhuber of Kaukauna. Mrs. A. M. Bachhuber, Kaukauna, was hostess at the meeting last night.

Mrs. B. Krautkramer and Miss Leone Jacobs will be hostesses for the next meeting which will be held Feb. 2.

Organize Sewing Club At Washington School

Twenty-three girl members of the third grade at Washington school have organized a sewing club which meets from 3:30 to 4:30 every Wednesday afternoon. Miss Catherine Bachmann, instructor, is in charge of the club and helps members with the various types of sewing. Officers will be elected at the next session of the group. Before the Christmas holidays, the girls sewed gifts for their parents. The presents included pillow tops, scarfs, embroidered wash towels and napkins.

Mrs. Hervey Is District Club Officer

MRS. C. C. HERVEY, 1128 N. Leminawah street, has been appointed chairman of law observance for the Eighth District Federation of Womans clubs by Mrs. George W. Krahn, Oconto Falls, eighth district president. Mrs. Hervey's duties in her new office will be to contact the various women's clubs in this district, asking them to appoint a law observance committee and to plan at least one program during the year covering this phase of club work.

This committee bases its activities on the theory that ignorance of law causes much delinquency and that education plays an important part in building up respect for law. Mrs. Hervey is secretary of Appleton Womans club, an office which she has held for over two years, and is a member of the finance committee of the local club. She was hospitality chairman for the state convention which was held in Appleton last fall, and formerly served the local club as recreational chairman for three years.

Pastor, Visiting Here, Works for Balkan Peace

THE Rev. Paul S. Rahneff, missionary for the Russian and Eastern European mission, who is giving the second of two sermons this evening at The Gospel Temple, is taking a leading part in the historic movement now under way to unite the Balkan nations in a pact of goodwill and to promote international peace. He is making a tour of the United States, speaking to peace groups and giving radio talks, but his addresses at The Gospel Temple deal with religion and its fight against Communism, bringing out what the movement he represents has done to combat Communism.

The Rev. Mr. Rahneff is a journalist and statesman as well as a religious worker. He is one of the editors of The Morning Star at Sofia, Bulgaria, and is a member of the International Federation of the Press. As a means of dispelling misunderstanding among the Balkans, he is taking a leading part in the formation of an international goodwill group that will bring together for frequent discussions of problems the leading judges, professors, journalists, workers and statesmen of the Balkan countries.

"It is proposed," he explained, "that in this new institution all initiations for international peace will be studied, developed, encouraged and brought home to the Balkan nations.

The primary purpose of the conference will be to eliminate the misunderstandings that create jealousies, mistrust and international ill will and thus prevent the major European powers from using the Balkan states as pawns, he said. It is his wish to establish an honorary committee here in America among people interested in peace.

Mr. Rahneff was educated in Bulgaria, finishing his education in England and at Columbia university, New York. He is now president of the Evangelical Church union of Bulgaria and is in the United States on a furlough.

Conservation to be Subject of Meeting

R. L. Swanson, Wilson Junior High school instructor, will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Whose Business—Conservation?" at the January meeting of Appleton Womans club at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the club house. Anyone interested, whether a member of the club or not, is invited to attend the meeting.

Tea will be served after the program, Mrs. George Schmidt to be chairman of the social committee.

Inter-City Social Parties Planned by Dormitory Groups

Dormitory groups of the Green Bay and Appleton Y. M. C. A. organizations will hold a social meeting at the local "Y" soon, it was announced today by Homer L. Gebhardt, general secretary. A committee will be appointed by the secretary to arrange the party.

The Green Bay group has organized a dormitory village with a membership of about 25 persons and all are expected to attend the Appleton session. A sports program is being arranged and, because it is a good fellowship proposition, no man will be allowed to compete in more than one activity.

The program will include basketball, handball, pool swimming, bowling and ping pong. A return party at Green Bay will be planned for the summer. The Bay organization is sponsoring a basketball team and publishing a newspaper as its two main objectives.

College Choir to Sing In Milwaukee, Chicago

THE Lawrence college A Capella choir will open its eighth consecutive season with concerts in downtown Milwaukee and Chicago early in February. Departing from its custom of visiting some 20 smaller and larger cities on a single spring trip, this year the choir will make their season's debut in two big-city appearances, the first at Pabst theater, Milwaukee, Feb. 5, and the second at Goodman theater, Chicago, the next day.

Dr. Carl J. Waterman, dean of the Lawrence conservatory and conductor of choral music for 26 years, will again lead the choir. During the past seven years his leadership has won a reputation for the organization which has prompted the college to seek a larger audience for it.

The choir will later continue singing in smaller cities. After the two metropolitan concerts it will probably fill several engagements in Wisconsin and Illinois as it has done heretofore. Last year its engagements ran well into late spring.

The 65 students of the college who make up the choir were chosen from more than 150 who tried out during the fall months. This year's program will, as usual, be notable for breadth. The choir's reputation rests chiefly upon its vitality, its fine shading and the range of its expressiveness. The program will include a section of sacred numbers, and two sections of lively folk-songs, vivid negro spirituals, and melodious lyrics.

Stradivarius Quartet In Faultless Concert

FAULTLESS playing and striking tonal effects last night featured the concert of the Stradivarius string quartet at Lawrence college chapel. The harmonious blending of the music from the four instruments created by the acknowledged master maker of violins did great credit to the members of the quartet, Wolfe Wolfinsohn, Alfred Pochon, Marcel Dick, and Iwan D'Archambeau.

The program opened with Mr. Pochon's special quartet arrangement of Bach's familiar "Passacaglia in C Minor", heard often on the pipe organ. Mr. Pochon's arrangement was faithful to the spirit of the work, and seemed in excellent taste throughout. While strings cannot give this work the solidity and depth of tone that the organ can, the quartet gave it a memorable rendition, inasmuch as it was just as fine music through this medium as through the organ version. The performers are responsible for this opinion, their perfect playing giving the work real vitality.

The Mendelssohn-Bartholdy quartet, excellently handled by the quartet, was reminiscent in spots of other Mendelssohn airs. Not too heavy a work, like other Mendelssohn things it was none the less charming with its sprightly minuet and presto.

It was the playing of the Brahms, however, that raised last evening's concert to the level of an unusual musical event. The work in question is the "Quartet in C Minor, Opus 51, No. 1", a true test of any musical group. Only faintly suggestive of any of the four Brahms symphonies, this work has a character all its own, marking it off as a separate work of genius by the great German composer, to be played in a fashion wholly different from the longer works.

The quartet played it superbly, putting upon it the weight of massed strength just where such touches fitted the mood of the composition, at other times giving the work the delicacy which it calls for, yet which it is always a trifle hard to connect with the author of the First Symphony's almost intolerably powerful blasts. The four separate movements of this quartet stood out in high relief one from the other last night, each as a distinct musical picture, under the skilful playing of the Stradivarius quartet.

As an encore the group played the minuet from Handel's opera "Alcina", in a special arrangement by Mr. Pochon. The concert was indeed an excellent display of musicianship, a carefully selected program tastefully played. Instruments and players both combined to give the Artists Series one of its best concerts.

Faith Frampton Helps With Iowa College Production

Miss Faith Frampton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross Frampton, 133 E. Lawrence street, a senior student at Iowa State Teachers college, is busy with plans for the 1937 Tutor Ticklers, student vaudeville, which will be given Jan. 28 and 29 at the college, for she is assistant stage technician for the event.

Tutor Ticklers is an annual production presented solely through student efforts. The theme for this year's show centers around Aesop's fables, or "anything that may become legendary at the Teachers' college." Profits from the two performances go to the student loan fund.

Miss Frampton is majoring in art and minoring in English at the college. She is an active worker in the United Student Movement, organization of college men and women interested in the part religion plays in today's living.

Students Will Hear Talk on "Cosmetics"

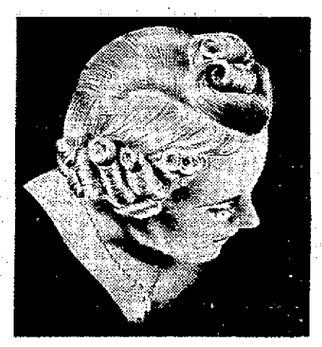

Students of Lawrence college will hear a talk on "Cosmetics" at a convocation in Lawrence Memorial chapel Friday morning. The subject will be discussed by Dr. S. F. Darling, associate professor of chemistry.

Hair-Splitting Decision Often Needed in Bridge

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In order to choose properly between alternative lines of play, a declarer need not be a master mathematician. An infinitesimal "edge" on a straight percentage basis is not apt to work out on one given hand. To be more explicit, if one plan has 49 chances in 100 to succeed and another 51 in 100, it is a "toss-up" which to select. Hair-splitting decisions are necessary at contract, but not that kind of hair-splitting.

But when one plan has an appreciable advantage over another, every good player should be able to perceive the proper course.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

North had a difficult problem on the second round of bidding. His diamond suit, while six long, was pretty anaemic, but his strength in the major suits made him feel that merely to rebid to two diamonds would be anything but constructive. In my opinion, his raise of one no trump, while aggressive, was the best available bid.

West opened his fourth best spade and dummy's king went to East's ace. Declarer won the spade return, and considered his resources. One diamond, two spades, and two club tricks totaled only five, and even if the heart king were on-side which would swell this to eight, the ninth trick would have to be obtained either in clubs or diamonds. The mere fact that the combined hands held one more diamond than they did clubs was not the only reason for declarer's decision to play for the diamond suit. The respective spots held in both suits were much more important.

It was apparent that if the diamond jack were held doubleton by either defender, the contract would be safe. In addition, if the diamond jack did not fall, but was held by East, West could have only one entry, and thus would not be able to establish and get in again to cash his long spades. As against this diamond analysis, the 3-3 break in the club suit that would be required for its establishment was not at all attractive, especially since the heart finesse would be necessary also.

So declarer led the diamond queen. West won and, seeing nothing better to do, cleared the spade suit. But now, declarer on winning the spade return laid down the diamond king, then when the jack failed to appear, took a heart finesse, and led dummy's ten of diamonds.

It was a tense moment for the declarer, waiting to see which adversary should win this with the jack. Obviously, if it had been West he would have cashed two good spade tricks, but when East came up with that vital card, declarer's troubles were over, and four-odd became a laydown.

Answer: No. Your bid was correct. You had four and a half-plus honor tricks and only two losers. Clearly, a forcing two bid.

Use Cream To Prevent Rough Skin

BY ELSIE PIERCE

PERHAPS you're "up in the north countree" with the snow crisply crunching beneath your feet, the air is cold, but clear and invigorating, you're on skates or skis, dressed in ski pants and parka, and your spirits are as high as the hilltops. If your eyes are shiny and you are laughing it matters not that your nose is a wee bit red (the only time this grave beauty sin is forgivable, mind you.)

If you're as wise as you're happy you have the only exposed part of the picture of you protected, too. The sharpest eye may not see it, but under your rouge and powder there's a thin layer of protective cream which is the grand secret of your smooth skin. If you're a mean little minx you tuck it away in a hidden corner and let the world go on wondering on how you keep that delicate skin so satin smooth, with nary a sign of chap or pucker. On the other hand if you're quick and frank to admit that you're a modern (and if you have another sin—generosity in excess) you're probably passing that protective cream around.

The combination of protective cream, rouge and powder act as a barrier against wind and weather. Powder, by the way, may be used a little more generously than usual, particularly since it will blow off more quickly than usual anyway. Under your liprouge use the same cream or a colorless pomade. And don't forget to treat your hands with special consideration. Even if you have fur mittens on for the most part, there comes the one minute when you are adjusting skates or skis and that's the very minute the cold winds wait for to do their chapping, biting bit.

Use less soap and water than usual, too. Limit the washing, if you must wash your face to once a day on retiring. But use cleansing cream generously at other times, particularly for cleansing your skin before and after going outdoors. And after the cleansing at night, be sure to use a rich emollient or lubricating cream, leaving a thin film on overnight.

Wear goggles when outdoors for the effect on the eyes of sun on white snow is quite glaring as sun on summer beach. Use an eye lotion when coming indoors to relieve smarting which isn't unusual after winter exposure. And keep away from the fire when you come in, for the heat in itself is drying to the skin and the adjustment the skin has to make between the extremes in temperature from bitter cold outdoors to heated interiors extracts the natural oils and has a very drying, aging influence.

If you are traveling, be sure to keep Beauty stepping with you. My little bulletin "Traveling with Beauty" may be a good traveling companion too. Send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Liking for Reading Can Be Taught to Children

BY DOROTHY DIX

I have been reading a most delightful and inspiring little book that is called "The Birthright of Babyhood," and what special and inalienable privilege to which every human is entitled do you think it champions?

DOROTHY DIX

The right to be taught to love to read, and the author tells mothers just how they can do it and lead Junior gently and insidiously up from Mother Goose to Proust. Heretofore we have been by way of looking upon bookishness as an individual idiosyncrasy, something that was as purely a matter of taste as cavier or tobasco in your soup. You were crazy about books if you liked 'em and you loathed 'em if you didn't, and that was all there was to it. Those of us who found our chief solace in life in reading pitied those who were shut out from it, but we never thought of them as underprivileged people who had been deprived of their constitutional right to one of the greatest of all sources of deep and abiding happiness.

Yes this is true. Every child can not only be taught how to read, but also what is far more important: to love to read. If this is not done he has been defrauded of a birthright that is far more valuable than any lands and gold. He has been cheated out of a broad and full life and made to live in a narrow one. He has been denied a pleasure that never palls and of which he never tires and which he can enjoy under any circumstances. Between the man who loves to read and who has all literature for his heritage and the man who has only the headlines in the newspaper and the comic strip, is the difference between the multimillionaire and the pauper.

We cannot possibly enumerate all the blessings that a love of reading bestows upon us, but let us consider only a few of them: It is the ever-ready and at hand panacea for what ails us. Are we sick and miserable, too nervous and weary to endure human companionship? We can turn to our old and well-beloved friends in books, whom we have had enough of them without apology and without fear of giving offense. Are we harassed and worried about our affairs? Are we gloomy and distraught? We can pick up a magazine and read a gay story that will turn our gloom into laughter, or we can forget our own troubles by reading in the morning paper of some tragedy so great and overwhelming that it leaves us humbly thanking God for our luck, and ashamed of having whined over our petty misfortunes.

If we love to read we are saved from the curse of loneliness that devastates half of humanity. We can never lack for company, for they are there on the shelves waiting to be asked to spend the evening with us. There are the sages, to teach us wisdom. There are the poets to sing to us. There are the wits to make us laugh. There are the spinners of tales to keep us entranced with their stories of high adventure.

You don't have to put in an evening listening to dreary bores tell over the dull stories you have heard a hundred times or more, or have your ears wearied with petty gossip and backbiting. Nor do you have to yawn behind your hand while Mr. A. discourses about how many miles he can make on a gallon of gas in his new car, or Mrs. B. recite all the infantile bonmots of little Johnny, when you can spend it with the immortals.

You don't have to leave your comfortable chair and warm hearth to hunt up amusement if you love to read. It is at your hand in a new book or a fresh magazine. The people who spend their time and money going to see pointless plays and silly movies and other people as uninteresting as themselves, who wander from night club to night club and every place that purveys alleged amusement, are the people who have never learned to love to read.

The love of reading is the one comfort to us in our grief. It puts glamour into the long hours of our sleepless nights. It lets us live a vicarious life, in which we are great lovers and handsome sheiks and beauteous maidens instead of the commonplace individuals we are, and in our rocking chairs brings us all the thrill and romance of travel in far places.

The love of reading is the greatest safeguard that young people can have. It keeps them at home of nights. It forms their characters on high ideals. It fires their ambitions and does more to keep them in the strait and narrow path than all the moralists and preachers.

So great and manifold being the blessings it brings, it is indeed the birthright of every child to be taught to learn to love to read.

DOROTHY DIX.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A B C'S IN MANNERS

Since a great many teachers send me questions, which from time to time their classes ask them to explain, I will begin today to print those which I have space for, and continue with others one day each week under this same column heading. The following are the first:

1—When a girl is introduced to a boy, is it her place, or his, to say I'm glad to have met you" just before leaving each other? Or don't young people usually say anything so formal?

Answer: Strictly speaking it is his place since a man meets a woman and not the other way around. Instead she might say "I hope I see you again" or "It was pleasant talking with you". From what I have heard in younger groups I think they are much more likely to say "Good-bye" and no more, or if they really mean it, add, "Hope I'll see you again sometime".

2—Is it correct to say "Excuse me" or "Pardon me" when passing in front of some one. For instance, in a theatre. And when are the more suitable occasions for saying "I'm sorry"?

Answer: The expressions "I'm sorry" and "Excuse me" can be said almost interchangeably for an offense that is unavoidable and yet one which might be unpleasant to others. "I beg your pardon" is said for an offense that is caused by one's awkwardness. The word "pardon" is a social tabu if separated from the complete sentence, "I beg your pardon". In the theatre, when your seat happens to be an inner one, you say to the person on the aisle "Excuse me" and then wait a second until he can turn aside. If he seems to be disturbed, you add "I'm sorry".

3—At what age does a girl have "Miss" engraved on her visiting cards? And does this same age apply to a boy's card?

Answer: "Miss" is prefixed to the name of a young girl at fifteen or often sooner, and her name should be engraved Miss Margaret Blank and not Miss Sunny Blank. On the other hand, a boy never puts Mr. on his cards until he leaves school and many prefer cards without Mr. until after leaving college.

4—In sending commencement announcements or invitations, how should the outside envelope be addressed to both a husband and wife. The inside envelope? And what if they have four young children whom the invitation is to include?

Answer: Mr. and Mrs. John Smith or Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith or perhaps Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smith is written on the mailing envelope. Inside their name is shortened to Mr. and Mrs. Smith. The children's names need only be written underneath that of their parents on the second envelope, in the order of their ages when they are young rather than putting the girls' names first.

The Story of China

VIII—MANCHUS AND "PIG-TAILS"

A year or two ago, I asked a man who draws pictures for a daily picture strip why he was putting queus or "pigtails" on the Chinese characters in his story.

"I know they don't have pigtails anymore," he repiled, "but that's a way to show they are Chinamen."

When Chinese men wore pigtails

For my part, I think we should keep up with the times, and should think of the Chinese as people without pigtails. We cannot say that no Chinamen have kept their old-time style of hair-dressing, but the custom is just about a thing of the past.

The pigtail story goes back almost 300 years. The last emperor of the Ming dynasty lost a battle against Chinese who had risen in revolt. He escaped capture, but went to a hillside and hanged himself. Peking, his capital city, was taken over by the rebels.

Meanwhile a Chinese general named Wu had gone to the north with an army to fight against the Manchu Tartars. A message was brought to him telling of the capture of Peking. Then he made peace with the Manchu army and entered into a plain, or plot, to join them and go south to drive the rebels out of Peking.

The plan was successful, and the Chinese rebels were driven away. The Manchus, however, decided to stay in Peking and make themselves at home. General Wu was given the honor of being called a prince, but the real power went to the Manchus. They started what was called the "Ta Ching" (or "Great Pure") dynasty.

In the years which followed, there were rebellions against the Manchus, but all were put down. Different Chinese leaders claimed the right to the throne, and because the Chinese did not work together the men from Manchuria were able to make their power firm.

The Manchus made many Chinese angry when they ordered all men in China to shave their heads in front, and at the same time to allow the hair in the back to grow long. When the hair reached down some distance, it was braided into a queu or pigtail. This law was made to force the Chinese to show their "loyalty" to the new line of kings.

As time went on, the custom of wearing pigtails grew popular. The people forgot that Manchu power had been forced on them. Even Chinamen who went to far countries to carry on the laundry business kept their pigtails. Perhaps they were afraid they never could go home without them, but at least they did keep them, and seemed not to mind.

Then came a revolt—a quarter of a century ago. The last of the Manchu emperors lost his throne. Laws were passed to bring an end to the pigtails. Some Chinese were glad to cut them off, but others were worried. "What if the Manchus should get back into power?" they asked.

In certain cities, soldiers were stationed in different places. When they saw a man with a pigtail, they ordered him to halt. Then, with big shears, they cut off his queu. Millions of pigtails were lost, and a great deal of the hair went into the hairnet industry, to give women in other lands "nets" to hold their hair in place.

Child's Manners Usually Can be Traced to Family

BY ANGELO PATRI

The manners children have usually can be traced directly to the family habits and customs. What father does, what mother says, is good enough for the children and they loyally follow pattern.

Donald, nine years old, was playing on the garage floor when his father entered to take out the car. "Lisien you," he shouted as though the child were fields away. "Scram." Donald picked up his toys and betook himself elsewhere. Father took the car out and went his way without a thought of the bit of training he had given his son.

At the end of the month Donald brought home his report card. One of the items bore a little note in red ink. After the word "Manners" the teacher had wirtten, "Poor. Rude speech; crude."

"How's this?" asked father, frowning. "Don't you say, 'Excuse me'? Hasn't your mother taught you to say 'Please' and 'Thank you' and not to pass in front of people and all that?"

"Yes sir."

"Then why don't you do as she tells you? I should think you'd feel ashamed of such a report. No movies for you this week, young man."

Mother pondered this thing. Just what had the child done to have the teacher make that note on his card? She felt that there must have been something extraordinary behind it, and the longer she thought about it the more she wanted to know. She went to school and asked the teacher, "Just how did Donald offend in his manners? I try to teach him the best I know how."

"Yes, I am sure of it. I knew you would want to know. Donald has a rude way of talking. Not to me, but to the other children in class. When he wanted Isabelle to make room for him at the study table he shouted: 'Listen you. Scram.' That is not the way a boy should speak to a girl in his class, now is it?"

It is no sin to use the vernacular. But it is no point of grace either, and grace is sadly needed in everyday life. What one says and, more important, how he says it, impresses people and becomes the measure of the man or woman. If you think over the list of people you know you can readily point to those whose manners and address are positive barriers to their hopes and ambitions. The uncultivated voice, the careless speech, the rude address repel people. Friends are made by those who know how to say pleasant things pleasantly.

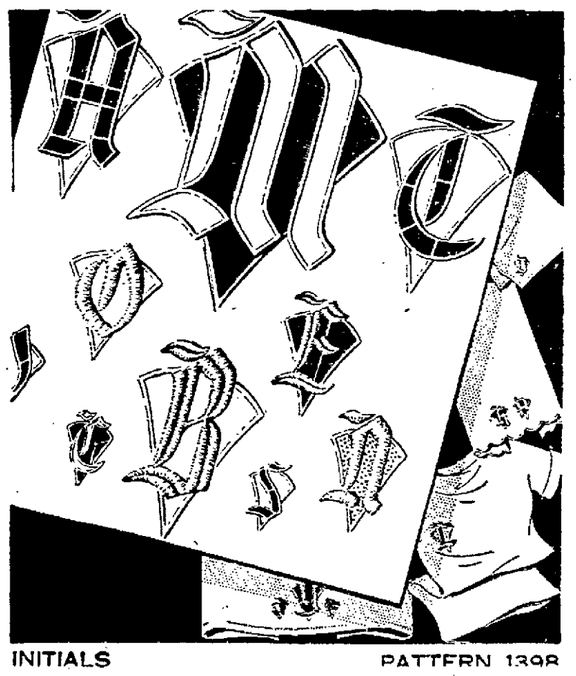

It can be said that hypocrites know this and practice it. They do—some of them. But the great majority of well-mannered, well-spoken people are sincere. Good manners are the expression of a disciplined, considerate, cultivated mind. They have roots in the spirit.

Good manners begin with the alphabet of "Excuse me; Thank you; If you please," and develop into the gracious, courteous, thoughtful attitude of friendly cooperation that says, without words, "Friend, let us go together."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

TWENTY-SIX COPIES OF ONE INITIAL

INITIALS PATTERN 1398

Here's economy and beauty in one—twenty-six copies of your own initial in one pattern—enough to mark quantities of linens! If it's a monogram you want to embroider rather than a single letter, order one pattern for each different initial. For instance, if your initials are B. L. T. send 10 cents for B, 10 cents for L, and 10 cents for T, and you'll get twenty-six copies of each letter, Pattern 1398 contains a transfer pattern of 26 copies of a single letter in the following sizes: two 3-inch, six 2-inch, six 1½-inch and twelve ¾-inch; directions for placing and forming monograms; illustrations of all stitches used.

Send 10 cents for each initial you want to the Appleton Post-Crescent, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, letter desired, your name and address.

THE OTHER WOMAN LIVES JUST AROUND THE CORNER

It may seem unreasonable, but most men cannot understand why a woman who is usually happy and loving should have recurring periods when her whole character seems changed. He cannot appreciate the distress, the discomfort that all women must endure. He does not know what it is to do housework with an aching back and failing energy. All he does know is that other women seem more cheerful by comparison.

Are you such a three-quarter wife?

Don't let the ordeals that all women face cause you avoidable discomfort or endanger your home. Do as so many wise women have—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife: take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

He trumped his partner's ace!

Didn't seem natural for him to do it but I guess he's been up late nights. When it's so cold, he's had trouble heating the house and has had to stay up all hours "tending the furnace." When we took them home, he said he was going to install a Lennox Forced Air unit with Automatic Controls and throw the old furnace out. Arny has this unit and he says it's wonderful!"

Gustman Chevrolet	19	26	.422
Haupt Specials	17	25	.405

Kaukauna—The Hopfensperger Meat keglers jumped from last into fifth position in Commercial league bowling last evening at Schell alleys, when they humbled the Haupt Specials by sweeping the series. Charles Schell, with games of 169, 236 and 189 paced the victors by virtue of his 594 aggregate, second highest individual total for the night.

D. Kobs, with 519, led the Haupt Specials, when he rolled 161, 177 and 181.

J. Lamers, performing with Miller High Lifes, toppled the pins for a splendid 600 total, on games of 210, 209 and 181, to take blue ribbon honors. He helped the Millers sweep the Gustman Chevrolet crew farther down the league ladder. Ed. Simons, with 467, led the motor car representatives.

Electric City Brewers clung to third place position by besting the Log Cabin in two of three games. John Leich, with 489, was high for the beer team, while N. Gerend, with 503, helped the woodcutters win its one game.

Bob Rice, High School Faculty ace, helped his team win the final game from Schell Alleys with a 467 total, but the Alley team had already taken the first two tilts, aided by the 498 bowling of R. Martzahl.

Hopfensperger (3)	986	1024	995—3005
Haupt Specials (0)	844	877	863—2584

NEW YORK MODEL IS SLAIN IN HOME

New York police studied a blood-soaked strand of hair, torn from the scalp of her slayer, as the single clue in the "bathtub murder" of Mary Robinson Case (above), 25-year-old model and bride of a year, found in her home in a tub overflowing with water. It was apparent, police said, that Mrs. Case, a former Junior Leaguer of Lancaster, Pa., had put up a terrific struggle before succumbing to the crushing blow of a machinist's hammer. The following resolution was offered and read by Ald. Thompson.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION FOR THE ISSUE OF FOUR HUNDRED EIGHTY-ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($481,000.00) OF BONDS OF THE CITY OF APPLETON, WISCONSIN TO PROVIDE FUNDS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION AND EQUIPMENT OF A SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING AND THE ACQUISITION OF A SITE THEREFORE FOR THE SAID CITY OF APPLETON, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE COLLECTION OF A DIRECT ANNUAL IRREPEALABLE TAX ON ALL THE TAXABLE PROPERTY IN THE SAID CITY OF APPLETON FOR THE PAYMENT THEREOF.

Whereas, the said City of Appleton, Wisconsin has decided to acquire a site for and to construct and equip a new Senior High School building, with the aid of a PWA grant, and

Whereas, the said City of Appleton finds it necessary to borrow funds through the issue of bonds which are to be a general charge upon the taxable property in said city;

Now, Therefore, Be It Hereby Resolved by the Common Council of the said city of Appleton, Wisconsin:

Section 1. That there shall be and there are hereby authorized and directed to be executed and issued the negotiable coupon bonds of the City of Appleton, Wisconsin, to an amount aggregating the principal sum of Four Hundred Eighty-One Thousand Dollars ($481,000.00) for the purpose of providing funds for the purchase of a site and the construction and equipment of a new Senior High School building for the said City of Appleton, Wisconsin, said bonds to be designated "Senior High School Bonds," shall be four hundred eighty-one (481) in number, numbered 1 to 481, both inclusive, which shall be of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) each, shall bear date of February 1st, 1937, and shall become due and payable as follows:

Bonds numbered 1 to 8 inclusive on February 1, 1942.

Bonds numbered 9 to 19 inclusive on February 1, 1943.

Bonds numbered 20 to 36 inclusive on February 1, 1944.

Bonds numbered 37 to 94 inclusive on February 1, 1945.

Bonds numbered 95 to 153 inclusive on February 1, 1946.

Bonds numbered 154 to 216 inclusive on February 1, 1947.

Bonds numbered 217 to 280 inclusive on February 1, 1948.

Bonds numbered 281 to 345 inclusive on February 1, 1949.

Bonds numbered 346 to 412 inclusive on February 1, 1950.

Bonds numbered 413 to 481 inclusive on February 1, 1951.

Said bonds shall bear interest from said date until paid at the rate of not to exceed four per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of February and the first day of August in each year, which interest installments to date of maturity shall be evidenced by appropriate coupons attached to each bond and both principal and interest on said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Appleton, Wisconsin.

Section 2. That each of the said bonds shall be in substantially the following form, to-wit:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
STATE OF WISCONSIN
COUNTY OF OUTAGAMIE
CITY OF APPLETON
SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL BONDS

No. ——— $1,000.00

Know All Men By These Present, That the City of Appleton of the County of Outagamie and State of Wisconsin, acknowledges itself to owe and for value received, hereby promises to pay to bearer the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) on the first day of February A. D., 19—, together with interest thereon from the date hereof until paid at the rate of ——— per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of February and on the first day of August in each year, as evidenced by and upon the presentation and surrender of the annexed interest coupons, as they severally become due. Both the principal and interest on this bond are hereby made payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer

Former Police Sergeant Held In County Jail

Charge Joseph Martell With Being Accessory In Alleged Theft

Menasha—Joseph Martell, former Menasha police sergeant, was arraigned before Judge Henry P. Hughes in municipal court at Oshkosh this morning on a charge of being an accessory before the fact in the alleged theft of 41 slot machines from a storeroom here Nov. 13. Preliminary examination was set for 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Jan. 16.

After failing to provide a $500 bond, Martell was committed to the Winnebago county jail. He was arrested by Menasha police yesterday on the complaint of Ray Kieffer, Scofield, owner of the machines.

The 41 machines, valued at about $4,000, had been sent to Menasha and stored in a warehouse until plans for placing them here could be completed, it was reported. Kieffer told Chief Slomski that he had met a man named Edward Burns at the Valley Inn, Neenah, Nov. 7, and that plans to operate the machines were discussed. A third party impersonated Chief Slomski and agreed to arrange matters so that machines could be operated in Menasha.

A $1,000 bond for Edward Phillips, Waukesha, charged with the alleged theft, was ordered forfeited in municipal court by Judge Henry P. Hughes yesterday after Phillips had failed to appear for a preliminary examination about two weeks ago. A bench warrant was issued today for Phillips.

The resignation of Martell was accepted by the Menasha Fire and police commission Dec. 14. He served as a police officer in Menasha for 14 years. In his resignation statement, the former sergeant mentioned that he had had differences with the commission and his superior officer.

Prints Studied By Camera Club

Members to Attend Banquet at Green Bay Saturday, Jan. 30

Criticisms and suggestions made on a photographic print exhibit were tabulated at a meeting of the Appleton Camera club Tuesday evening in the Post-Crescent building. The criticisms will be sent to the persons who made the prints. The exhibit will be on display at the Koch Photo shop on E. College avenue for the remainder of the month. Next month the club will receive a traveling exhibit from the Aurora Camera club of Aurora, Ill.

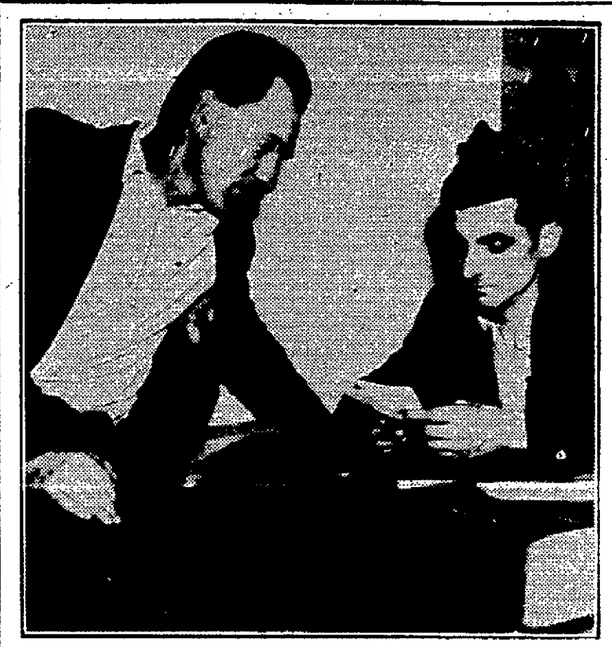

E. Leon Foreman, chairman of the Fox River Valley Salon of Photography committee, informed the club that the first public showing of the 300 prints received in this competition will be made at the Y. M. C. A. in Green Bay at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, Jan. 30.

Together with the preview will be a banquet which will be open to all persons interested in photography. It is planned to have Dr. Max Thorek, Chicago, or one of the other five contest judges as guest speaker. Four prints made by each of the judges will be included in the exhibit at Green Bay. Tickets for the banquet may be had by writing the Appleton Camera club, post office box No. 404, or contacting Robert W. Luebke, club secretary.

Winners in Essay Contest Announced

Menasha — James Smolinski, Gerald Jensen and Richard Rohloff won first, second and third prizes in a printer's essay contest on color conducted in the printing class at Menasha High school, according to A. J. Armstrong, principal.

The class is conducted by Harold Griffith under whose direction the contest was run. Honorable mention was accorded to Alvin Brzycki, George Goeser, Carl Odermann, Robert Pankratz and Leo Osiewalski. Judges were three local men.

Neenah—A father and son, John Wenzel, Sr., and John Wenzel, Jr., 507 Nicolet boulevard, appeared before Judge L. O. Cooke in justice court this morning on charges of assault and battery against Norbert Promer, a neighbor.

The son pleaded guilty and was fined $1 and costs while the father entered a plea of not guilty. No date has been set for the trial of Wenzel, Sr.

The alleged offense occurred Friday afternoon, Jan. 8, according to records, near the homes of the parties. Promer declared the defendants beat and struck him with a snow shovel.

Revise Schedule in Freshman Conference

Menasha — With two Appleton schools dropping from the Fox River Valley Freshman Basketball league, officials have drawn a new schedule which goes into effect Thursday, A. J. Armstrong, Menasha High school principal, announced today.

The league had originally been composed of six teams and now is a 4-team loop including Menasha, Neenah, Kaukauna and New London. The Menasha team has played only one game. It lost to New London.

The new schedule follows: Jan. 14, Neenah at New London and Menasha at Kaukauna; Jan. 21, Kaukauna at Neenah; Jan. 28, Neenah at Menasha and New London at Kaukauna; Feb. 4, Neenah at Kaukauna and Menasha at New London; Feb. 11, New London at Neenah and Kaukauna at Menasha; Feb. 18, Kaukauna at New London and Menasha at Neenah.

Boy Scout Circus Committee Will Meet

Final plans for the annual Boy Scout circus will be discussed by the circus executive committee at 7:30 Friday night at the scout office in the Zuehlke building. The committee includes Chriss Larsen, E. E. Thomas, William Wright, R. W. Mahony, J. H. Dunham and George Howden. Final arrangements for the special acts will be completed.

Armstrong Named to Teachers' Committee

Menasha—A. J. Armstrong, principal of Menasha High school, has been appointed to the resolutions committee of the Northeastern Wisconsin Educational association for the convention to be held in Oshkosh on April 10, according to a notice received here from the president of the association.

Menasha Dam Project Is Nearing Completion

Menasha—Pouring of concrete on the Menasha dam near Mill street bridge will be completed this week, according to the job superintendent. Men are now working on the north portion of the dam. It is expected that cleanup work will be finished in about three weeks. The dam is being constructed by a Chicago engineering company.

Wausau Teachers Visit At Vocational School

Three members of the Wausau Vocational school faculty visited at the Appleton Vocational school yesterday, according to Herb Heilig, director. The visitors gave special attention to the retail sales department, the central office practice and the maid training course.

The Wausau group included Fred L. Fox, mathematics and social science instructor; Miss Ethel E. Pearson, commercial department director; Miss Dorothy Strese, home making department. They visited at the Green Bay Vocational school last night.

Rename Heads of Outagamie Bank

Board of Directors Reelected at Stockholders' Meeting

Officers of the Outagamie County State bank were reelected by the board of directors last night at the bank offices. Fred Stoffel was re-elected president and John Morgan, vice president.

Other reelected officers are: Joseph Dohr, cashier, and O. A. Hansen, assistant cashier.

The officers were named by the board of directors after the annual meeting of stockholders. At the meeting of the stockholders all directors were renamed. They are Dr. F. V. Hauch, Earl Wichmann, Nic Dohr, Fred Stoffel, John Morgan, Joseph Dohr and O. A. Hansen.

Annual reports were read and a good business year reported.

Menasha Personals

Menasha—Miss Marge Eberlein, Shawano, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller Babcock, 832 Appleton road.

Agnes Dombrowski, 410 Fifth street, had been admitted for treatment at Theda Clark Memorial hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Jury, 425 Ahnaip street, at Theda Clark Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon.

Menasha Board of Education to Meet

Menasha—Menasha board of education will hold a regular meeting at 7 o'clock this evening at Jefferson school. Monthly business will be discussed and bills passed. As a result of a resolution passed at the last meeting of the board, the next meeting will be held on the fifth day of each month instead of on the second Wednesday.

Mayors to Open Catholic Men's Bowling Meet

Held and Kalfahs Will Take Part in Ceremony Saturday Evening

Menasha — Walter E. Held and Edward Kalfahs, twin city mayors, will roll the first balls to open the Catholic Men's State Bowling tournament Saturday night at the Hendy alleys, Menasha.

Roman Stilp, tourney secretary, said there is a possibility that Mayor John Goodland of Appleton may also take part in the opening ceremony. Entertainment during the ceremony will be furnished by the St. Mary High school band.

Twelve Neenah-Menasha teams are scheduled for the opening games which will start at 7:30 Saturday evening. Another shift will be rolled at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with teams from Appleton and Little Chute entered.

This is the first tournament of its kind to be held here and officials will endeavor to make it an annual affair, the secretary said. William R. Tuchscherer is president of the tournament.

Band Leader on Trial for Murder

Fate of Robert A. Simpson To be Decided by Three Judges

Norwich, Conn.—(AP)—The hot tempos of a swing band by the sea dissolved into the cold realities of January today with the opening of the murder trial of Band Leader Robert A. Simpson, charged with slaying 17-year-old Ellen Sullivan, telephone operator.

A "mystery" witness from Worcester, Mass.; the unusual aspect of a murder trial before three justices without a jury; and the sordidness of the state's charges that Simpson criminally attacked the girl in the darkened hall of a Danceland casino added to the drama of the trial. Agreement of two of the three judges is needed for a verdict.

The girl was screaming "go away from me. . . leave me alone," the state contends, when she plunged through the windows of the casino to fall 25 feet to a concrete sidewalk last July. She died two days later.

Much thinner and paler now, after six months in jail, Simpson, who led the band, played the saxaphone and cornet, and generally was the life of the summer nights at the casino, 11 miles from here on Long Island sound, offered a simple defense.

His story is that Miss Sullivan, ill from too much drinking, went with him to the dance hall to recover while he got his instruments, and leaped from a window after becoming hysterical. Simpson insists he did not molest the girl.

Coroner Edward G. McKay, who conducted an autopsy, said she had been criminally attacked.

Commission to Study Rate Reduction Order

Study of the Wisconsin Public Service commission's order to reduce water rates in the city will be made by the water commission at a meeting at 1:15 Saturday afternoon at the water department offices. The order was received last week and is effective on water consumed from Jan. 1. The reduction was asked by the commission.

Postpone Kaukauna Scout Training Work

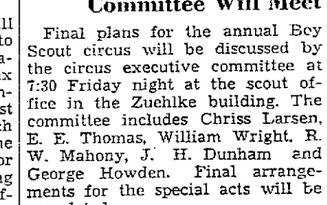

Because members will go to Gardner dam this weekend, the Kaukauna Boy Scout training course will not be held Thursday night, Walter G. Dixon, scout executive, said this morning. Actual camping work will be studied by the group while at Gardner dam.

NEENAH MAN FINED

Neenah—Jack Driscoll, Neenah, was fined $1 and costs for parking all night when he appeared before Judge L. O. Cooke in justice court this morning. Driscoll was arrested by Neenah police.

Texas, first state in size and fifth in population, ranks nineteenth in the amount of money provided for game regulation.

Seven Fights Scheduled for Legion's Amateur Program

Dunn, Steffen Duket, Urlich In Windup Bouts

THE CARD
Windups

Al Urlich, Chicago, versus Frank Duket, Marinette, at 160 lbs.

Wilbur Dunn, Fond du Lac, versus George Steffen, Lena, at 155 lbs.

Earl Noel, Marinette, versus Al Scarlotta, Chicago, at 118 lbs.

APPLETON'S last amateur fight card until after the golden gloves programs next month will be staged at 8:30 Thursday evening at Armory G. There will be seven bouts with two listed as windups and five as preliminaries.

One of the feature attractions will bring together Al Urlich, St. Norbert college student, and Frank Duket, Marinette, at 160 pounds. Both have fought here before, Urlich this winter and Duket last spring. In pairing them for the coming show, Matchmaker Les Holzer of the Legion fight club, took into consideration the fact that Urlich is a hard man to hurt and that Duket is a rather hard hitter.

Urlich may have a slight edge over the former Marinette High school athlete in the way of height and reach but Duket has a crouch that makes him a hard target and he can step inside nicely when meeting long-armed boys.

The other windup will show a couple fellows pretty well known locally. They are Wilbur Dunn, the Fond du Lac Adonis and former University of Wisconsin boxer, and George Steffen, Lena, who is best remembered here when he showed as a welter. Both are veteran performers, hard hitters and like to fight. Dunn lost to Urlich at Oshkosh and beat him at Waupun.

Earl Noel, Marinette, and Al Scarlotta, St. Norbert college, will clash in the fifth bout of the evening, at 118 pounds and don't be surprised if they put on the biggest show of the evening. Both lads throw a lot of leather and they don't give a whoop about defense. Scarlotta appears to be the harder hitter but Noel has done pretty well himself for he pitches about three blows to everyone else's one. Noel's last appearance was last spring but Scarlotta made his debut this winter and looked like a pretty fair boy.

Billy Noel, Marinette, and Lionel Boehm, Green Bay, will appear in the fourth contest. Billy will be making his first start before an Appleton audience and comes here with a reputation for being a mixer. He'll have to be good, too, for Lionel's last appearance here saw him take a win over Honey Boy Sullivan, considered one of the best boxers in the central part of the state. Noel and Boehm will weigh in at about 135 pounds.

Al Robbins, Oshkosh, returns here for a go with Kid Tessloff, Fond du Lac. The boys hooked up at Waupun on Jan. 1 and staged a show so entertaining that Matchmaker Holzer immediately signed them for a return engagement here. Robbins is a rugged chap with a lot of stamina and boasts a pretty fair wallop. The bout will be in the 145-pound class.

Archie LeMay, Neenah, will take on Al Stauber, Fond du Lac, in the second bout. They will show at 155 pounds. LeMay has been here before but Stauber will be making his first start.

In the curtain raiser, Red Kitzinger, Marinette, who showed against Winton Glaser last spring and lost by a K.O. after holding a big edge most of the fight, will meet Les Walters, Sheboygan. Walters is in bad with the A. A. U. at this moment but hopes to have his troubles straightened out in time to go on.

Seven Matches Listed For Vike Squash Squad

Seven matches for the Lawrence college squash team have been arranged by Coach Arthur C. Denney with the first scheduled for Saturday against the Milwaukee University club at Milwaukee. On Jan. 23 the Milwaukeeans will come to Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence and on Feb. 12 and 13 the Vikes will play in Minnesota against the University of Minnesota on the former date and against Carleton college on the latter. On Feb. 20 the Vikes will meet the Milwaukee Town club here and on March 6 will compete in the western intercollegiate meet at Chicago and the next day play Purdue university at Chicago.

IT'S BADMINTON, THE NEWEST INDOOR SPORT

The newest game being played in Appleton junior and senior high school gymnasiums—and at Lawrence college—is badminton, some of the implements for which are shown above. The picture was taken at Roosevelt Junior high school recently and shows Jack Belling ready to serve with Benny Blacher looking on. In badminton the player hits a shuttlecock or bird, shown in Belling's hand, over a net. The shuttlecock is a bit of weighted cork covered with kid leather and the feathers are a type of goose feather. The rackets are similar to squash rackets, only lighter, and the game combines the skill of tennis and handball. You can take a healthy out at the bird without hitting it too far and a good player can run you ragged despite the fact you probably think the sport looks like a softy game. Late Rally Gives Chuters Win Over Brillion Cagers

All-Stars Stage Last-Minute Drive to Defeat Visitors, 20-19

LITTLE CHUTE— Little Chute All-Stars came from behind in the final quarter to cop a 20 to 19 decision after a thrilling game here last night with the Brillion team. Little Chute jumped to a lead in the first period, was shaded by a point at halftime and fell behind five points in the third period.

G. Verstegen, P. Jansen and H. Verstegen came through with scoring honors to give the Little Chute squad a victory. The Hollander scoring guns opened fire in the first period to give the Chuters an 8 to 2 lead, but a tight Brillion defense kept the home squad scoreless in the second period and the visitors took a 9 to 8 lead.

In the third period, Brillion increased its lead to 17 to 12, but the Dutchmen opened up a last minute offensive and copped a 1-point victory. Brillion missed six out of seven free throws awarded during the game.

Goldins of the Kaukauna Industrial league lost to Shorty Shoes in the preliminary by a 23 to 21 score. R. Berg accounted for 11 points for the Goldin squad, with five field goals and a free throw, while T. Jansen scored 10 points for Little Chute on four baskets and two free shots. The Shoes led 6 to 5 at the end of the first period, 15 to 8 at halftime and 19 to 18 at the end of the third period.

Villanova Coach Walks Backward Into Stadia

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Here's news: Art Cohn, sports ed of the Oakland, Calif., Tribune, writes: "I saw Maxie Rosenbloom make a monkey out of fat, clumsy Kingfish Levinsky and I doubt if Joe Louis could lay a hand on Maxie in 20 rounds." . . . Add superstitions: You can't hire Maurice "Big Clipper" Smith of Villanova to walk forward into a stadium. . . He always backs in. . . This will give you an idea of what New York baseball writers (a hard boiled lot) think of Eddie Brannick, Giant secretary: Jerry Mitchell wrote in the Evening Post: "He has more friends than Santa Claus." . . .

The New York Yale club has its best wisecrackers primed to give Larry Kelley what the boys call "de woiks" at tonight's dinner to the Yale gridders. . . Ossie Solem may be called on for double duty at Syracuse. . . They haven't got an athletic director up there and since Ossie held down that job at both Drake and Iowa, he may be asked to take it over as well as coach the football team.

Golf pros now in California are burned up at the new Southern California ruling which prohibits them from receiving advice from caddies. . . Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, is the latest riser in the sports mob. . . He never leaves the hay until 4 p. m. . . The Phillies have a hot prospect in young Hugh Mulcahy, up from Hazleton, Pa., with the sling-shot delivery. . . . Blair Cherry of Amarillo high is the No. 1 candidate to succeed Jack Chevigny at Texas. . . If he does, he'll have to take a cut in salary. . . . Right now, he is among the highest paid high school coaches in the country.

Appleton Sextet Performs Tonight

Merchant Hockey Team Clashes With Fond du Lac at Jones Park

Appleton Merchant hockey team will make another home appearance after several weeks when it clashes with Fond du Lac at 8 o'clock this evening at Jones park rink. Friday night Oshkosh will show here.

The Appleton lineup will have A. Babino at center and C. Tracy at goalie. Tod O'Dell and Eddie Helms will perform at the wings and Eddie Hildebrandt and John Wagner as defenses. The spares will be Grosser, Buss, J. Babino and E. Reider.

Lutz Ice Cagers to Meet Neenah Quintet

Lutz Ice company basketball team, playing independent ball this season, will clash with the Badger-Globe mill team of Neenah, at 7:30 Thursday night at Roosevelt junior high gymnasium. The Badger-Globe club is usually called the Neenah Kimberly-Clark team and is composed of the best talent in Neenah.

Scouting Swellest Job In World, Rowland Says

BY EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO — (AP) — Clarence "Pants" Rowland, rounding out 44 years in baseball, says there's no thrill like managing a world series winner and nothing lonelier than being an umpire — "and I've been through the whole mill."

Rowland, 54-year-old Chicago Cubs scout, started as a mascot for a Dubuque, Ia., team and has been a player, club owner, manager and arbiter in his long diamond career. But the biggest "kick" he ever got from the sport was managing the great Chicago White Sox team which won the American league pennant and world's championship in 1917 over the New York Giants.

"What a team," he breathed reverently. "Lookit those names, boy—Chick Gandil at first, Eddie Collins at second, 'Swede' Risberg at short and Buck Weaver at third, Joe Jackson, Hap Felch and 'Shano' Collins in the outfield, and Ray Schalk catching. For pitchers, such men as Eddie Cicotte, Red Faber, Dave Danforth, Reb Russell and Jim Scott, among others.

"But it was a tough job, handling that club, in addition to being my biggest thrill. It was as temperamental a bunch as I've ever seen. Eddie Collins, the greatest second basemen of them all, was in a different mood every few seconds.

"If the youngsters don't—the old timers remember how we won the world title by taking the final game 4 to 1 after Heinie Zimmerman, Giant third sacker, chased Collins across the home plate trying to tag him out in the third inning. That cracked the New York morale and we took the series 4 games to 2. Red Faber won three of them.

"But I didn't like this umpiring job. I called 'em in the American league from 1923 through 1927 before I got tired of having few friends and no chances to make more.

"Do I like scouting?" he grinned. "Say, that's the best job in the world. Lots of friends, lots of baseball and the swellest bosses in the world, yes sir!"

THURSDAY'S GAMES

7:30—Holy Name versus Kaukauna Greenwoods (non-league).

8:30—Shorty's Shoes versus Merchants.

Little Chute—One league contest and one non-league game will be staged by the Little Chute Holy Name Basketball league starting at 7:30 Thursday evening at St. John school gymnasium. The games will be the second of the second round of play and will be free. The free admission idea is being tried for the first time.

The opening game Thursday will have Holy Name versus the Kaukauna Greenwoods and will be the non-league contest. It has been arranged because the Legion is forfeiting to the Holy Name so that it can keep a date with the Green Bay Reformatory team at the Bay.

The second game will show Shorty's Shoes and the Merchants. Both teams were defeated last week but aim to get back in the win column Thursday night.

John Canavan Tops In Vike Squash Meet

John Canavan, Neenah, is at the top of the pyramid squash tournament now being held at Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college. Among the students from Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and Kaukauna entered are K. Tuchscherer, D. Bergstrom, R. O'Boyle, Jim Gmeiner, R. DeLong, John Schmerein and R. Strange. Under rules of the tourney players in one row challenge a player in the row above to move to the top of the heap.

Kimberly Quintet Defeats Pankratz Cagers, 37 to 25

Game Close Until the 4th Period When Papermakers Rally

KIMBERLY— Kimberly Club cagers defeated the Pankratz Fuels of Menasha, 37 to 25, at the clubhouse, Tuesday evening. It was a close game until after the third quarter when the Papermakers went to town and made 17 points to their opponents 9.

In the first quarter Webster dropped a bucket for Menasha which was immediately followed by a bucket by Bowman of the clubbers. Albers made the second basket as Barnes of Menasha sank two. Paul Albers then received a gift shot and Bowman made another bucket as the quarter ended with Kimberly out in front by a lone point, 7 to 6.

During the second quarter Hofkins succeeded in dumping one from the side. Barnes and Soloman each scored a basket for Menasha. Bowman lifted the ball easily for another ringer which was followed by a gift shot by Vander Velden and a basket by Bowman. The lead changed several times during the period but the Papermakers were in front 14 to 10 at the rest.

Menasha scored two buckets and two gift shots in the third quarter as Kimberly made four free throws and a basket and the quarter ended with Kimberly ahead, 20 to 16.

In the final quarter the Fuels could not overtake Kimberly as the Papermakers scored heavily. Bowman got two buckts. Le May three in addition to a gift shot, Vander Velden one, Wentzell one and Gossens one. Bowman was high point man for the papermakers with six buckets and Barnes of Menasha led his teammates with three baskets and a free throw.

Thursday evening the Papermakers will play Mike's tavern five of New London.

Paul Bietela Entered in New London Ski Tourney

NEW LONDON — The appearance of Paul Bietela, star Class A Olympic ski rider of the University of Wisconsin, and Miss Natalie Bailey, youthful registered Class B rider from the American-Norwegian Athletic club at Minneapolis, will feature the ski tournament of the New London club at Mosquito hill Sunday, Jan. 24, according to C. H. Kellogg, secretary. The record feats of Bietela are well known and Miss Bailey has made jumps measuring over 100 feet.

Entry applications have been received from both riders and three other Class B jumpers of the Wisconsin Hoofers Ski club to which Bietela belongs. Invitations to the meet were sent out only last night the secretary revealed.

Well-known riders who have performed on the old hill before and who have indicated they will ride the new hill are Ingvar "Ole" Arneson of Wisconsin Rapids and Lawrence Maurin of the Milwaukee-Oconomowoc Ski club. Both are Class A riders. Many old and new riders are expected to gather at the meet here and indications point to a full afternoon of skiing thrills.

The first tier of timbers in erection of the new slide scaffold was completed yesterday and with continued fair weather workmen expect to complete the main work this week and have all in readiness for the meet.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

Apparently the folks in these United States aren't as open minded about things as they would have you believe. I refer to the move started in New York and the east to boycott the Schmeling-Braddock fight because of the fact Max is from Germany and therefore branded a Nazi. The move admittedly is gaining headway, so much headway that promoters are beginning to fear a bust if the fight is staged.

Just why a lone individual like Max should be blamed for all that the Nazis may be doing is beyond me. Certainly he isn't directing the policies and certainly he couldn't do a darned thing about them if he didn't like them. He'd probably lose his head if he said much. As for the Nazis climbing on the band wagon if Maxie wins, he can't stop that either.

The poor fellow seems to be between the devil and the deep blue sea for, if your memory isn't so bad, you'll recall that when he was getting ready to fight Louis his Nazi countrymen would have little to do with him and he was an outcast until he toppled the colored lad. Then everyone in Germany was his friend and he their countryman.

Or perhaps there's a colored gentleman in the wood pile—and not Louis, or maybe it is Louis.

It also seems that the Braddock-Schmeling fight isn't tickling popular interest because neither of the gentlemen concerned is considered good copy except from the "comeback" angle, and that the promoters are therefore pointing to the boycott as a reason for not putting on the show, thereby giving Maxie the well known run around.

A year ago the same sort of yell went up about American participation in the Olympic games but that type of intolerance so aroused the folks in these United Statees that they got up and sent the team anyway and now it's all over and forgotten.

So personally I'd like to believe that the talk about the boycott stopping Max from getting a chance at Braddock and the title is just a smoke screen and that the real reason Maxie isn't getting consideration is that he can't attract the folks through the gate as a challenger.

Three St. Norbert boxers recently appeared with the Chicago C. Y. O. team against a South Bend, Ind., team. . . . The boys were Canadeo, Scarlotta and Kenneally. . . . Incidentally, St. Norbert is planning bouts with Stevens Point, North Dakota U., Michigan State and Toledo U.

Chet Smogolske, an outfielder with the Two Rivers club in the Northern State league may go south with the Milwaukee Brewers, according to reports. . . . He played in the left garden on the Two Rivers championship team.

Norman Faliede, a member of Coach Arthur C. Denney's Lawrence basketball team, is probably the smallest cager in the Midwest conference. . . . he stands 5 feet, 4 inches. . . . Junior Kapp, center, is tied for highest honors being 6 feet, 4 inches. . . . the same as several other boys around the loop. . . . Other teams consider Osen and Burton the toughest Vikes to do business with . . . but they rate all of the Carleton squad that way. . . .

Water polo and fencing have been introduced at Beloit college by Coach Louis Means. . . . Jack Clarke of the Beloit Daily News does Lawrence injustice. . . . He says the Vikings lost to Adrian, wherever that is, 35 to 27. . . . That wasn't Appleton's Lawrence, Jack, 'twas some other institution.

Middleweights Clash In New York Tonight

New York—(AP)—Two of the better-known 155-pounders, slugging Solly Krieger of New York and ex-champion Teddy Yarosz from Pittsburgh, tangle tonight to eliminate one from the crowd of middleweights invading Broadway's fight circles these days.

Looking on at their ten-round mill in the Hippodrome will be the current titleholder, Freddy Steele of Tacoma. He may take on the winner in defense of his title, although Babe Risko another former champion, and Jimmy McLarnin also have been mentioned.

Krieger and Yarosz, for the moment, are at the top of the heap of 155-pounders around town. Also on hand is Fred Apostoli of San Francisco, who meets Ken Overlin of Norfolk on Jan. 27.

Eastern Major Leaguers are Acquiring Minor Loop Farms

BY SID FEDER

NEW YORK —(AP)— Acting on the theory that "if the Cardinals did it, why shouldn't we," major league clubs east of the Alleghenies aren't letting any grass grow under them in building up farm systems in the bushes.

Along with the Giants' recent purchase of a Class AA outfit to lay the groundwork for a chain gang, and the disclosure that the Boston Red Sox will have shares in eight clubs this season, the lowly Brooklyn Dodgers came up today with a surprise announcement of a hookup to include eight minor league teams for 1937.

This big time departure of the Dodgers into the agricultural side of the game may include every sort of material from the highly-regarded Class AA American association down through Class D. Still pending, however, are negotiations for some sort of working agreement in the association.

Much of the system will be operated through Broklyn's Class A Allentown farm in the New York-Pennsylvania league. Through this affiliation, the Dodgers will have the pick of any player in Clinton of the Three-Eye league (Class B), and Reidsville, N. C., of the Bi-State league, Beatrice of the Nebraska State loop, and Cordele of the Georgia-Florida circuit, all Class D.

Started with 2 Clubs

These are the newcomers to the Dodger chain, which has been expanded in only two years from an original two-club lineup. Holdover agreements include those with Knoxville of the Southern association and Dayton of the Class C Mid-Atlantic.

The Red-Sox' wide-spread organization, too, stretches all the way from Double-A Minneapolis to a pair of Class D outfits in Danville of the Bi-State and Moultrie of the Georgia-Florida circuit.

The Giants, finally now falling in step with the march of baseball time, are getting ready to do the thing up brown. With the Jersey City International league club already in line, along with Gulfport, Miss., the National league champions are shopping around for more of the same.

The world series victors, the New York Yankees, have been in the business for some time, and have found it highly profitable. Two of their best sources of supply are the Newark (International league) Bears, and the Binghamton (New York-Penn) triplets.

Both the Philadelphia big league members have seen the light. Connie Mack has several sources of material for his Athletics; the Phillies have working agreements which already have paid dividends.

The Boston Bees now own two clubs outright. Even "old fox" Clark Griffith has found that working agreements have returned products worth while for his Washington Senators.

Budge, Grant, Parker Win at Tennis Tourney

Budge, No 1 ranked red-head from Oakland, Calif., drew Randall Rose, St. Petersburg city champion, while the No. 3 rated Grant traded shots with Bob Decker, clever youngster from Miami.

Frankie Parker, Spring Lake, N. J., seeded second, who looked good in polishing off Donald Elkins of Atlanta, faced Vernon Marcum of Lakeland, Fla.

Olympic Riders Enter Illinois Ski Tourney

Chicago—(AP)—Three of the four members on the 1936 Olympic ski jumping team will compete in the annual Norge Ski club meet next Sunday at Fox River Grove, Ill., and club officials expect the entry of the fourth.

The Olympic riders entered are Walter Dietila of Ishpeming, Mich., Casper Oimen, Anaconda, Mont., and Sverre Fredheim, of Minneapolis. Roy Mikkelson of Auburn, Cal., a member of the Olympic team, has indicated he will appear.

Manawa Cops in Fourth Quarter

Beats Hortonville by 23 to 22 Score in Close Contest

Hortonville — Manawa High school basketball team of the Central Wisconsin conference eked out a 23 to 22 victory over Hortonville of the Little Nine conference here last night. It was Manawa's second win over the Polar Bears this season, the first coming late in November by a 30 to 14 score.

Last night's game was a thriller and the lead changed hands several times. Hortonville was in front 9 to 7 at the quarter but Manawa led 14 to 13 at the half. In the third period Hortonville again forged to the front for a 19 to 18 margin but Manawa rallied and copped the final verdict.

In the preliminary game Hortonville reserves beat Manawa, 9 to 7.

Scrimmages are Scheduled for Viking Cagers

Denney Driving Team Hard for Coe Game Here Saturday Night

SCRIMMAGE sessions are scheduled for Lawrence college basketball team today and tomorrow as Coach Arthur C. Denney drives his proteges hard for a game with Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia., here Saturday night at Alexander gymnasium. Friday evening the Kohawks play at Ripon.

The Lawrence outlook for Saturday night isn't so good if one believes Coach Marshall Diebold of Carleton. He told Denney last week that he expected Carleton's invasion of the Coe campus would result in a trimming and coming from the Carleton mentor it should mean something. Carleton defeated Lawrence last Friday night here.

Monday and Tuesday evenings the Vikings spent a lot of time on offense polishing their fast break and their set plays. Coach Denney has decided that because the Kohawks have scored 40 or more points in most of their games and have won nine straight starts, the best way to meet them is to get possession of the ball as much as possible and try to score on every opportunity.

Have Five Lettermen

Coe has a veteran outfit that boasts five lettermen and three reserves from last year. The team is led by McKinley, a 6 foot, 1 inch forward, who hasn't been stopped this season.

Whether there will be any changes in the Lawrence squad for Saturday is a question. Denney was pretty well pleased with the work of Faliede and Burton but would like to see Burton get more buckets.

His biggest complaint about last week's effort was that the Carleton forwards were going past Strauble and Osen too often. He admitted that Sparks was probably as fast a lad as the Vikes will run up against this seson, but he also points out his guards committed costly errors.

The center question still is a question. Kapp looked pretty good last week but Denney would like to get George Bennetts into action and give him as much experience as possible. He also offers a little more speed although not so much heights

RIPON DOWNS BELOIT

Beloit—Leading throughout except for a brief period in the opening half, Ripon defeated Beloit college in a Midwest conference basketball game here last night, 33 to 29.

Ripon trailed at one time, 10 to 9, but then spurted and was in front at the half, 19 to 3.

The last period brought out some spirited play but Ripon never relinquished the advantage, although Beloit was behind by only 31 to 28 with two minutes to go. Fouls were numerous with 21 on Ripon and 17 on Beloit. Beloit blew 14 chances from the penalty stripe and Ripon eight.

Claflin's Diary Recalls Three Fairly Good Lakes

BY BERT CLAFLIN
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

THIS is the third account of catches made by me during last season, which, as stated in my first article, I am submitting at the request of a number of my readers who asked for these reports in order to compare their success with mine. The catches I made will appear small in comparison with those of many other anglers, for the reason that I go in for experimental angling far more than I do for large catches. By that I mean I try out practically every kind of lure on the market; do much traveling in order to visit as many waters as possible not previously fished by me; and I return to the water most of the fish I do catch, unless they have been so injured in the operation as to lead me to believe they will not live. However, I am reporting my catches because I have been requested to do so. The records are taken from my diary.

By consulting it I note that on June 20, the day the bass season opened in most inland waters, I made a trip to Deer, Crystal and Muskellunge lakes, a group of waters in Oneida county just south of Lake Nokomis. I went there at the request of some friends living on Crystal lake.

This beautiful, spring-fed body of water has both small mouth and large mouth black bass. I succeeded, however, in catching only three of the former, using a fly rod and artificial surface lures. While there I saw a small mouth caught on a wooden plug. It weighed 5½ pounds.

Crappies in Deer Lake

Having been advised that Deer lake, which connects with Lake Nokomis, contained an unlimited number of large crappies, as well as some Oswego bass and northern pike, I went onto it late the afternoon of the second day.

I used a light fly rod and artificial flies. The crappies began breaking water all over the lake as the sun went down. I caught one at almost every cast from that time until darkness set in. Only a limited number of the largest were retained. Several of these weighed fully two pounds apiece. The smaller ones were returned to the water unharmed. For crappie fishing this lake is hard to beat.

The third morning, with my host, I fished for muskies on Muskellunge lake, but without success. I cast for them persistently with many types of lures, and trolled with spoons, but failed to get a rise. I did, however, land a large-sized northern pike which gave me a good battle. This fish was also released.

That afternoon we went over to the Bradley dam on the Tomahawk river where we caught 13 bullheads that weighed approximately a pound apiece. Walleyes are taken on wet flies below the dam, but they were not hitting at the time I visited it. All told, the region I speak of today is a good one.

Amerks, Hawks Win Puck Jousts

Former Downs Montreal Maroons, Latter Cops From Boston

New York—(AP)—The ailing New York Americans, like the tired business man, seem to have received a world of good from a week-end at the shore.

On the low end of a seven game losing streak and a slump in which they dropped 12 to 13 starts to sink into the International division cellar in the National Hockey league, the Amerks went to Atlantic City late last week to tune up. They've returned apparently ready for the wars again.

They got under way on the comeback trail in a hurry last night and walloped the Montreal Maroons 4-0 in a fast-skating exhibition.

The Canadiens tightened their grip on the divisional lead by battering the Detroit Red Wings 4-1, a defeat which snapped the Wings' four-game win streak, but still left them on top of the American division pack, through the idleness of the New York Rangers.

In the only other game played, the Boston Bruins skated rings around the revived Chicago Black Hawks, but couldn't score enough. As a result, the Hawks came through with a 4-2 victory.

Kornitz Oils, Womens Team, Sets Pin Mark

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Kornitz Pure Oil women's bowling team set a Wisconsin state record series of 3,042 pins last night in the Arcade Women's classic league.

The old state record, also held by the Kornitz team, was 2,899 pins.

The Oils opened with a 966 game, then rolled 1,036 and closed with 1,040.

VETERAN CAPTAIN

Tulsa, Okla. —(AP)— Bossing basketball teams is old stuff to Capt. Carl Bowen, Tulsa university senior guard. He's leading his third quintet. Carl piloted his junior high school team to a city championship. He led the Tulsa Central high Braves to a state title.

Legion Auxiliary in Black Creek Meeting

Special to Post-Crescent

Black Creek — Thirteen members attended the meeting Monday evening of the American Legion auxiliary. It was announced that the county council meeting would be held at Appleton, Jan. 18. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. A. F. Piehl by Wednesday.

The following committees were appointed for the card party to be held at the legion hall Thursday evening: hostesses, Mrs. Louis Kaphingst, Mrs. M. C. Monroe; lunch, Mrs. Peter Kitzinger, Mrs. A. F. Piehl.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Laird of Bloomer spent the weekend here. On Saturday evening they attended the formal dance of Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the Masonic temple at Appleton.

Dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Piehl were Mr. and Mrs. John Ohm and son Ivo, Mrs. Bertricks and daughter, Evelyn, of Antigo. Supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dietrich and children of Appleton.

A son was born Jan. 9 to Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Brusewitz.

Bank Directors At Clintonville Retain Positions

400 Per Cent Increase in Deposits Reported In Two Years

Special to Post-Crescent

Clintonville — All former directors were reelected at the annual stockholders' meeting of the Clintonville National bank Tuesday afternoon at the armory. They are: Rudolph H. Schmidt, D. J. Flanagan, Charles Binder, Alfred Hofman, Rudolph Schniedeke, Albert Vollbrecht and Miss Hattie Schroeder.

In the absence of the president, R. H. Schmidt, the meeting was conducted by D. J. Flanagan, vice president. Mr. Flanagan gave a talk in which he complimented Cashier W. T. Luedke for the splendid progress which the institution has made since its organization in 1934. In the two years from Dec. 31, 1934, to Dec. 31, 1936, the bank's deposits increased from $201,774 to $814,344, a gain of 400 per cent. A 2 per cent cash dividend was paid to the stockholders Tuesday from the net earnings of the bank which amounted to over 13 per cent. Two hundred new depositors were added to the bank's patronage during the last year.

There are more than 600 stockholders in the new Clintonville National bank, a successor to the First National bank, which closed in 1933. The stockholders Tuesday authorized the directors to either purchase the First National bank building which is now occupied by the new institution, or take steps to erect a new building. Shares represented at the annual meeting were 1,659 in person and 1,328 by proxy.

The directors will hold their meeting at a later date for the purpose of choosing their officers. Present officers of the Clintonville National bank are: Rudolph Schmidt, president; D. J. Flanagan, vice president; W. T. Luedke, cashier; Charles J. Laux, assistant cashier; and Miss Jennie Meggers, bookkeeper.

Wings for Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS. Philip Page, who is darkly handsome and serious, returns to his boyhood home and buys the Warrenton Courier. He backs the workmen of the Morris mill in their fight for better homes. Occasionally he squires Sally Warren, the attractive, thoughtful society editor who has just lost her sweetheart to her younger sister. Mary Morris, daughter of the wealthy property owner whom Philip is battling, risks her father's anger to pursue Philip. She tells him her father has hired a detective to investigate the fire which destroyed his Palace theater, killing 10.

Chapter 27
'LITTLE BLUE ROOM'

ANOTHER surprise was in store for Sally She reached home to find Mrs Morris in the living room, talking earnestly with Mrs Warren. Mrs Warren called Sally to come in and join them.

'How do you do, my dear?" greeted Mrs Morris "You're looking a little thin, but very pretty"

Mrs Morris was a plump, somewhat dowdy little woman, on whom expensive clothes never looked either trim or fashionable She suffered a great deal from what she called "nerves" and spent much of her time at fashionable resorts

"Mrs Morris has come on an errand that concerns you, Sally," said Mrs Warren "She wants you to come and spend a month with Mary"

Sally looked from one to the other in amazement. "With Mary?" she echoed

"I know that sounds a little strange," said Mrs Morris "But it's Mary's idea You see, I'm going away Young Joe is taking me to a little place on the Canadian lakes that I find very helpful when my nerves are in dreadful shape Mary absolutely refuses to go with us The naughty girl pretends she's concerned about her father and won't leave home Of course I don't want her puttering about that big house alone, what with all the threats we've been receiving lately, so I suggested I'd get an elderly cousin of ours to stay with her. Mary refused to have anything to do with that suggestion She wants you to move into the house for a month instead."

"What do you say to that, Sally?" asked Mrs. Warren

"But I have my job—I can't give that up," protested Sally

"No, of course not But you'd be able to spend a good deal of time with Mary She simply wants someone in the house"

"Are you sure Mary really wants me?" asked Sally slowly.

"She's coming by later to talk to you about it," said Mrs Morris. "She does want you, indeed"

"I—I'll have to think about it and talk to Mary," said Sally. "What do you think, Mother?"

"I think it would be splendid for both you two," said Mrs Warren "You need to go out more, Sally, and Mary will see to that."

"We should consider it such a favor," said Mrs Morris, patting Sally's hand with her own plump, ringed one

Sally left them and went upstairs to her own room. She was frankly puzzled Of course she and Mary had been friends for years, and since Philip Page's coming they had been together oftener, but Mary's choice of her to stay in the Morris house for company still puzzled Sally. Apparently Mary's refusal to go away for the hot month of August was easily explained by her desire to stay near Philip Suddenly Sally saw that Mary's reason for wanting her must involve Philip, too. She expected to see and hear more of Philip by having Sally in the house.

The moment the thought occurred to her, Sally dismissed it from her mind. However true it seemed, she had no right to judge Mary's motives. Later, when Mary came to her room, Sally was glad she had banished the thought.

"I think I'm getting nerves, like mother," Mary confessed, as she perched on the edge of Sally's bed. "At night I wake up and imagine I hear people prowling about the lawn and porch. Once I was so sure there was someone on my balcony I went out there to see."

"Goose," scolded Sally "You need to go away instead of your mother"

"No I want to say But I want someone with me You will come, won't you Sally? I've planned it all I've even had Mattie get the little blue room next to mine ready for you"

"Of course I'll come," said Sally.

Like Cinderella

Thus it was that Sally found herself established in the Morris mansion The "little blue room" turned out to be twice the size of Sally's own bedroom It got its name from the color of the deep turquoise rug that covered the floor, and the draperies that framed the tall windows, The furnishings were of walnut, massive pieces that shone with the polish that age gives to fine wood Sally liked the rich deep colors and the dark tones of the walnut better than the ivory and gold glitter of Mary's room

Sally was amused at the sight of her small wardrobe which the maid had carefully hung in the clothes closet At least two-thirds of the closet was still vacant after all Sally's possessions had been established

As she brushed her hair and put on the most festive of her voile dresses Sally thought, "I am not Sally Warren any more I have a maid to press my clothes, and I am driven to the office in state I shall live in luxury a little while, and then one day I shall pack up and go back, like Cinderella, to my fireside But by that time I shall be quite spoiled"

Dinner at the Morris house, Sally was to discover, was always a formal meal, with a manservant skilfully attending. Instead of her father, sitting at the head of the table, and telling bits of news from the office or the newspaper, there was Mr Morris, who ate his dinner almost wholely in silence, and allowed Sally and Mary to do most of the talking

Sally stared at Mr Morris a good deal those first few days He was a man of more than average height, and somewhat heavily built His voice was deep, and even in the simplest matters had a commanding note He had heavy, iron-gray hair, and bushy brows His eyes, dark like Mary's, were small put very piercing

Sally wondered if Mr. Morris knew that she worked for his enemy, Philip Page She rather thought he did not know He would not be very curious about any of Mary's friends

Smooth Mr. Benton Arrives

On the third day of her stay with Mary Morris, another guest arrived Sally was introduced to him at dinner, when he sat opposite her He was a Mr Giles Benton and had come down, so Mary informed Sally, to act as efficiency expert for Mr. Morris

Afterwards, on the terrace, Mr Benton made himself very agreeable to Sally and Mary, but for some reason which she could not explain to herself, Sally did not like him She was glad when a servant came to tell her she was wanted on the telephone.

Philip Page's voice came to her over the wire. "I've got to go out of town on business I'll be gone at least 24 hours, and there's something I want you to look into for me."

'I'll be glad to," said Sally, pleased and proud that he relied on her

"McDonald's in trouble. Go down tomorrow after you're through at the office and talk to them. Give me a full report when I get back."

Sally went back to the terrace to find Mr. Morris gone, and Mary talking with Giles Benton

"Do you have to go to the office?" demanded Mary eagerly. "I'll take you if you do"

"No, not tonight. Just an errand I have to do tomorrow," said Sally. She knew Mary wanted to know if her message was from Philip, but Sally determined to be secret with Philip's affairs

"Miss Warren works for Philip Page," said Mary to Giles Benton.

"For Mr. Page, eh?" said Giles. He rubbed a hand over his smooth hair, and Sally saw the gleam of a ring on his finger. "I was about to ask you, Miss Warren, if you

A tragic picture greeted first arrivals at the crash scene, four miles from the Olive View sanitarium—a semi-conscious pilot mumbling incoherently into a radio no longer working; every occupant "piled up on someone else."

The scene was detailed by Richard Gardner, deputy county surveyor, who said he found Pilot William Lewis in the mail compartment, pistol in hand.

"His leg broken, he was looking out of the compartment, a gun in his hand," Gardner said. "He had just fired a shot to direct rescuers to the scene.

"I pulled open the cabin door. My eyes fell first on the dead man, James Braden. His body had fallen over Mrs. Osa Johnson and she was asking for someone to help lift him aside. She herself apparently was suffering from a broken leg.

"Most of the passengers were conscious. The seats were all smashed and everyone seemed to be piled up on someone else.

"I recognized Martin Johnson from pictures I had seen of him. He was delirious and was screaming from pain and shock.

Praises Stewardess

"The stewardess was the heroine. Although suffering from a broken ankle, she limped about trying to help out all the others and cheer them through the ordeal.

"Everyone was quiet and composed except Johnson, who was still in his delirium. They all took the tragedy bravely. When other rescuers finally arrived, they all seemed a bit cheered.

"The pilot told me the crash took place at 11:10 a. m."

Arthur S. Robinson, Rochester, N. Y., possible fractured ankle.

Stewardess Esther Jo Conner, Glendale, Calif., fractured ankle.

Patient Hears Crash

Four miles from the crash scene, Roger Pollard, 19, a patient at the sanitarium, shouted to his nurses:

"There's an airplane crash just outside the window. I heard a great crash and then the cries of many persons."

Robinson who hobbled on his injured ankle to meet the first rescue party, said:

"We had no warning that anything was wrong. We were riding along very smoothly. Suddenly the plane began to drop—drop. Then there was a terrible crash."

The stewardess, confirming Robinson's account that there had been no inkling of trouble, said "we were talking about ham and eggs."

The plane, due in the Union terminal at 10:45 a. m. yesterday reported at 11:05 a. m. It was "coming down to localizer at field." The message referred to the airport's radio directional beam."

Pilot's Account

Pilot Lewis gave this account of the accident to Gardner:

"We had heavy weather as we came over Saugus. The Burbank station seemed to be tied up with other calls for I couldn't get through to Union Air terminal for my exact bearings. Ice had formed on the ship and I was driven to the left of my course while attempting to cross the range through Newhall pass.

"One of the motors was sputtering badly. I thought it was going to be ripped from its nacelle. I decided then that the only thing to do was to make a forced landing.

"Suddenly out of the fog, directly in front of us, loomed the snow capped Santa Clara ridge. I turned off my motors and pancaked the ship on the side of the mountain."

Airline officials declined to comment on the cause of the accident, which followed less than a month after a southbound United Air lines plane from San Francisco struck Oak mountain in this same Newhall pass area and killed all 12 persons aboard.

"An immediate investigation will be made as soon as the injured are cared for, and the facts will be made known to the public," said Alvin Adams, president of Western Air express.

The body of Braden was taken to a San Fernando mortuary.

Medical aid was rushed to the plane and the other injured were removed to the unoccupied lookout station.

DRAG RIVER FOR THEM AND PLANE

Boatmen dragged the swollen Illinois river near Hennepin, Ill., for the bodies of Lieut. Frank Otis (left) of Boston, and Sergt. John F. Gibbons (right) of Natick, Mass., Massachusetts national guardsmen, after a search, in which three aviators engaged, failed to reveal their lost plane. The men disappeared on a flight from Chicago to Moline, Ill., where they intended to visit Dr. Frank Otis, father of Lieut. Otis. (Associated Press Photos)

German, Italian Buying Result in Gains for Wheat

Prices Also Relatively Buoyant at Minneapolis and Winnipeg

Chicago—(AP)—Wheat scored a maximum advance of 1⅞ cents a bushel late today, helped by reports that Germany and Italy were both purchasing grain in Argentina.

A relatively buoyant trend of wheat prices at Minneapolis and Winnipeg attracted notice. Upturns of wheat market was aided at times by new high price records for corn.

At the close, wheat was ⅛ to 1 cent above yesterday's finish, May 1 35-1 35⅛, July 1 17⅛-¼, corn ¼-⅜ up, May New 1.11⅝-1.12⅛, July new 1 07¼-⅜, oats 1-2-¼ advanced, and provisions 10 to 17 cents down.

Slight Declines Rule In Bond Quotations

Fractionally lower were Santa Fe 4s, St. Paul 5s, North Western 4¼s, Rock Island 4s, Hiram Walker 4½s, Shell Union 3½s, Texas Corp. 3½s and Western Union 5s.

In the U. S. government bonds losses of around 3-32 to 4-32s of a point ruled around midday.

The upturn of 1-16 of 1 per cent in acceptance rates, the first change since summer, was seen in some bond circles as an indication the money market might tighten.

Non-Union Workers Fail to Open Quarters

Janesville—(AP)—Attempts of non-union employes of the local Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants to open a downtown headquarters today met with failure when a delegation of some 200 United Auto Workers members marched into the headquarters and prevented the holding of the meeting.

After a half hour, in which both union and non-union men were crowded into the same room, the headquarters was locked and the groups dispersed. There was no violence.

The office was opened with the intention of receiving reports on the number of signers to loyalty petitions. The petitions request early reopening of the strike-bound General Motors plants here and say the workers are satisfied with working conditions as they were prior to the sitdown strike called by the union.

Troops Arrive At Flint Plant To Keep Order

able for duty in this industrial community of 165,000.

In addition, several medical and hospital units were already here or preparing to come.

"This movement of nearly 2,000 men is to demonstrate that the state will be supreme," Murphy said: "The troops will see that property is not damaged, that there is no rioting, that no persons are endangered and that the laws are obeyed. The national guard was not sent to scare anyone."

Governor Murphy, saying that the parties to the labor crisis had failed to get together because of objections raised by each, declared that it was the state's duty to bring them together because of the great numbers affected by the strike and its resultant factory closings.

The first formal comment from General Motors on Monday night's riot was a statement by Knudsen that it "is very much to be deplored." Knudsen said that because the plant was closed the company watchmen had been instructed to handle no provisions or supplies, but the "strikers were not prevented from handling their food themselves."

The street fight was an aftermath of what union leaders charged was an attempt to prevent the "stay in" strikers from getting their food."

"The trouble started," said Knudsen, "when an outside organizer with a sound truck incited pickets outside and induced them to storm the gate and imprison the plant police. The city police were called, but were too far outnumbered to be effective.

Strikers Hold Plant

"The situation today is that the plant is in the hands of the strikers," where it must remain until local and state authorities can restore it to us."

The General Motors executive asserted the company had "not imported any guards," saying all of them are Flint residents. He added that "the only imported men in Flint today are found in the ranks of the union."

He said the corporation will not deprive the men in the plant of lights, heat or water. The strikers said the heat was turned off at the time of the riot.

John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization, with which the U. A. W. A. is affiliated, revealed in Washington last night that he plans to ask congress to investigate General Motors and said the strike will be "fought to a finish."

He had spent a day conferring with Martin and John Brophy, a Lewis lieutenant in the C. I. O. Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, also talked with Martin, Brophy and Lewis.

Proposes Probe

Lewis proposed that congress investigate the financial structure of the corporation, salaries paid its executives, company earnings, the relationship between it and the DuPont family, the Flint riot and the Michigan judiciary.

Lewis also said he wants congress to ascertain whether "foreign financiers should dictate labor policy in America," whether General Motors maintains "arsenals," whether it has engaged a strike-breaking agency and whether Knudsen and Alfred P Sloan, president, are "mere office boys."

Lewis accused General Motors of "expending great sums" to promote anti-strike feeling and to "incite riot." He added:

"We are entirely satisfied with the progress of the strike. It is most effective and is expanding progressively. The object, of course, is to stop production—and production is being stopped. The strike will continue to expand. The Auto Workers' union is growing daily by the thousands."

wouldn't show me something of the town tomorrow."

"If I have time," said Sally. "I'll be glad to."

Why, Sally wondered afterwards, as she got ready for bed, did he want her to show him the town when Mary was the logical one to do it? Mary had not offered. Perhaps she had deliberately shunted the duty to Sally.

"Perhaps that's one of my duties as a companion," Sally said to herself. She stood looking out of her window at the long shadows of a clump of cedars. While she watched, Mr Morris and Giles Benton emerged from the shadows and paced up and down the moonlit stretch of lawn. They were in earnest conversation Sally could hear the murmur of their voices and see their animated gestures. Once Giles turned and stared up at her window. Sally drew back. It was only idle staring. He could not have known it was her window, much less have seen her. Yet Sally had a strange feeling that the two men had been talking about her.

She wondered, as she got into bed and pulled the cool linen sheet about her, if she, too, were getting "nerves" after only a few days in the gloomy Morris mansion.

Hope Clues Will Lead to Murderer Of Kidnaped Boy

naper. When told the battered and frozen corpse found near Everett, Monday, was that of his boy, he cried:

"I feared it. I feared when they pulled that boy out into the night that something like this would happen."

Close friends, however, have intimated only one kidnaper was involved. Paul Sceva, spokesman for the family, invariably referred to "the kidnaper" or "he."

Known clues guiding the hunt were the physical description of the kidnaper; the peculiar ink and type used in the ransom note; the same peculiarities repeated and possibly handwriting in two letters to Dr. Mattson; a plaster-of-paris cast of his sock-covered shoes, tire prints of an automobile used to carry the body of the boy and the peculiarities of the killer's personality.

Weight, 145 pounds; height five feet seven inches; complexion swarthy; hair, black; beard, black; eyes, brown; speech, with slight accent; voice, deep; age, about 38; when last seen he wore dark trousers, a blue blazer and a light cap.

Authorities suggested that in all cases of suspects investigators obtain if possible samples of the man's handwriting, his fingerprints and his shoe prints.

Suspect Fearful

They said the man might be showing great fear, possibly so much his speech would be incoherent and his actions irrational.

Missouri state highway patrolmen prepared casts of the shoes of the unidentified man found frozen to death yesterday near Kingdom, Mo. The man leaped from a transcontinental bus there Monday night.

(Officers investigating the abduction of 10-year-old Charles took casts of footprints at the snow-covered brushy spot where the boy's nude body was found).

The kidnaper was known to be brutal, reckless upon occasion as in the actual kidnaping, and yet exceedingly wary as in ransom negotiations.

Possibly his fingerprints were found on the ransom note, letters, the door he broke in the kidnaping Dec 27 or the body of the boy.

Rewards Offered

The federal department of justice offered $10,000 reward for arrest of the killer. Bernarr McFadden, magazine publisher, added $1,000 to this and Washington state legislators considered offering $5,000 more.

Wreaths and pillows of blossoms poured into the funeral parlors in preparation for the boy's private funeral service at 1 p. m. (3 p. m., C. S. T.)

Sceva, Lieutent Colonel Gus Appelman, H S Hamlin of Berkeley, Calif., and Chauncey B. Baxter, all close friends of the family, were named to carry the coffin to a mausoleum. A dozen other friends of Dr. Mattson were honorary pallbearers.

Federal bureau of investigation agents investigated every report, no matter how slight its apparent connection with the kidnaping.

Name Bent Chairman Of "Y" Subcommittee

David Bent has been named chairman of the Y. M. C. A. cafeteria subcommittee to plan improvements at the cafeteria, Homer L. Gebhardt, general secretary, announced this morning. He will be assisted by Clarence Scherer, Forrest Muck, Arthur Stremel and Stanley Palcich. The general cafeteria committee is composed of J. R. Whitman, C. P. Swanson and David Bent.

Kindergarten Pupils Plan Negro Playlet

The story of little black Sambo is being studied by kindergarten pupils at Washington Grade school, according to Miss Lucille Fitzsimons, director. Pupils have drawn illustrations of the black youth and have built a miniature stage on which a playlet concerning Sambo will be given. Several short skits have been presented by children since the holidays and the pupils have taken turns in portraying leading parts.

Loan Association to Hold Annual Meeting

Three new directors will be named by the stockholders of the Appleton Building and Loan association at their annual meeting at 7 30 Thursday evening in the council chamber at the city hall. A detailed audit report for the year will be read. Directors will meet after the general session to name new officers.

Negro Accused of Bathtub Slaying In N. Y. Apartment

Porter Arrested in Murder Of Mrs. Mary Robinson Case

New York—(AP)—The bathtub slaying of pretty Mrs. Mary Robinson Case came to a swift and unexpected denouement today when investigators seized a 33-year-old Harlem Negro and charged him with the crime.

Thirty-six hours after the 25-year-old housewife was strangled and beaten to death in her Jackson Heights, Queens, apartment, District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan announced that major Greene, wiry Negro porter employed in the apartment building, had been charged with the woman's murder.

Greene, who previously had been questioned and then released, was arrested at his home in Harlem, and taken to the apartment where Frank Case, 30-year-old hotel supply company employee, found the battered body of his wife Monday.

Greene was kept there two hours and then taken to the Newtown police station. Greene's brother Henry, 23, and William Henry Johnson, also a Negro, also were questioned.

Johnson and Major Greene were employed at the Jackson Heights Bachelors' club overlooking the Case apartment from an adjacent wing in the same building.

Reveals Evidence

In a statement, District Attorney Sullivan reviewed the evidence which led to the arrest of Greene.

"Fingerprints found on the panel of the door in the bathroom of the apartment occupied by the deceased have been identified as those of the defendant (Major Greene)," Sullivan's statement said.

"The defendant at the time of his arrest was wearing a shirt taken from the apartment occupied by the deceased and the property of the deceased's husband.

"The shoes taken from the defendant's person showed stains which beyond doubt will be identified as human blood.

"The dry cleaner's identification mark on the trousers found in the incinerator have been traced to a tailor's shop located in the vicinity of the defendant's residence where they were sent for cleaning Dec. 23 last."

Greene's arrest came a few hours after the body of the attractive housewife had been taken to Lancaster, Pa., for burial in the city where she was married Nov 23, 1935. Funeral services are to be held there tomorrow.

Rain, sleet or snow tonight and Thursday; rising temperature east and south portions tonight; colder Thursday, decidedly colder in west portion.

General Weather

A deep low which is now central over western North Dakota is attended by unsettled weather over all the central states, with light rain or snow falling over most of the Mississippi and Ohio valleys. Snow is general over the Canadian Northwest and northern Montana, and rain over the southern Pacific coast.

Temperatures are rising this morning over the central and plains states, but it is again much colder over the Canadian Northwest.

Youngster Attempts to Hitch-Hike to Chicago

Vernon Dawson, 13-year-old Sturgeon Bay boy, was a guest of the Appleton police department today while arrangements were being made for his return home by other means than hitch-hiking.

Vernon started out from Sturgeon Bay, intending to hitch-hike to Chicago for a visit with his father. He was picked up by a salesman late Tuesday and when the man arrived in Appleton he brought the youngster to the police station.
